Wants New Headquarters Here

Sikeston Offers 20 Acres For Patrol Site

Sikeston is trying hard to become the new home of Missouri Highway Patrol Troop E Headquarters. Hopeful city officials are making an all-out attempt to lure the patrol to Sikeston.

The patrol is considering moving its troop headquarters from Poplar Bluff to another site. The state legislature has appropriated funds for a new building, and a bill requiring the headquarters be built in Poplar Bluff has been vetoed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

This leaves the patrol free to search for a new location, and some people feel the patrol has already decided to leave Poplar Bluff.

Officially the patrol has not ruled out Poplar Bluff, and is said to be also looking in the Dexter -- Bloomfield area. But City Manager James Huff said Friday the city is making an all-out effort to be sure "the highway patrol realizes the advantages of Sikeston."

Huff said Sikeston is offering to provide the patrol with a 20-acre site complete with all utilities. The city has options on two sites located southwest of the Interstate 55 and 57 interchange. Patrol officials also looked at a third site which the city does not yet have option on.

Huff said it would cost $117,000 to provide water, sewer and electricity to the proposed sites.

He said the headquarters is staffed by 35 to 40 people and locating it in Sikeston would increase retail trade here by nearly $400,000 per year.

Huff said the eastern section of the Bootheel will soon have 80 per cent of the traffic in Troop E. He added that Sikeston was one of the few places in the country -- perhaps the only one outside of a metropolitan area -- where two interstate highway intersect.

Other advantages being stressed to the patrol include the quality of life in Sikeston -- the excellent hospital, the triple A-rated school system, a large retail shopping area, and a $400,000 recreation project just getting under way.

Huff said the Sikeston airport has a 4,300-foot runway capable of handling patrol aircraft, plus Sikeston is close to the Cape Girardeau airport.

Huff said Col. E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, state highway patrol superintendent, and other patrol officials were in Sikeston Thursday looking at sites and talking with city officials. Huff said no commitments were mady by the state officials, and added, "We'll know within the next couple of months whether the patrol is coming to Sikeston."

At Nevada

Guardsmen Leave For Camp

Company C of the 1140th Engineer Battalion of the Missouri National Guard left today for its annual two-week training encampment at Camp Clark near Nevada, Mo.

The unit, commanded by Capt. Robert Little of Portageville, linked up with other units in the battalion from Cape Girardeau, Fredericktown, Jackson, Portageville and Farmington.

Company C is composed of 115 members from Sikeston and Portageville.

Lt. Col. Ronald R. Fee of Cape Girardeau, executive officer of the 135th Engineer Group, will command the two-week camp in the absence of Col. James R. Crites, executive commander, who will be attending National War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., during the two weeks of training at Nevada.

Approximately 700 members of the 1140th and the 135th will take part in the summer training exercises. Accompanying the guardsmen from this area will be about 200 members of the 220th Engineer Company and the 1136th Military Police Company, both of Jefferson Barracks, according to Maj. Lloyd W. Young of Scott City, operations and training officer of the 135th.

Tonight the guardsmen will biovouac at Springfield and arrive at Camp Clark about 10:30 Sunday morning. Maj. Young said all heavy equipment has been transported to the camp.

The 1140th will be given a 24-hour platoon level Army training test at Camp Clark. Guardsmen will be assigned normal engineer missions functioning under combat conditions. Purpose of the test is to verify their level of training.

The battalion will also construct a 4,000-foot sod airstrip; destroy by demolition an old War War I sanitary disposal and water purification plant, landscaping the site afterwards; begin construction of a 12-acre lake; construct a mile-long gravel road; clear a streambed of underbrush for about two miles and undertake other on-post projects.

The guardsmen will return about noon July 2, bivouacing at Van Buren the night of July 1.

Two IGA Foodliners Robbed

The IGA Foodliners in Sikeston and Charleston were robbed of nearly $725 Friday afternoon.

Three, or possibly four, well- dressed Negro males and two well- dressed females walked into the Charleston supermarket shortly before 2 p.m. and began creating a disturbance. They are reported to have asked a cashier to take some goods off the shelf for them, and then crowded around her, blocking her view to the cash register. One of the group then emptied a cash register of $400 to $475.

The same group is believed responsible for a similar robbery of the Sikeston IGA about 2:15 p.m. where they distracted employes while one of them opened an unwatched cash register. They took $244.

Four Injured In Two Area Mishaps

Four persons were injured in two traffic accidents on Southeast Missouri roads Friday night, according to the highway patrol.

Two New Madrid teen - agers were injured at 10:10 p.m. in a one- car accident on Route U near New Madrid. They are Jane Ashley, 17, of New Madrid, head cuts and a possible neck injury, and Terri Nowell, 15, of New Madrid with a possible shoulder injury. They were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital at Sikeston.

The patrol says Miss Ashley was speeding and failed to negotiate a curve. Her car ran off the road and overturned.

At 6:35 p.m. near Poplar Bluff, two people were injured in a three- vehicle accident.

Injured were Charles W. Richey, 60, of Sikeston, minor head and chest injuries, and Minnie M. Easter of Ellsinore with a possible back injury. They were taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

According to the patrol, the accident occurred when a tractor- trailer truck stopped to turn. Richey stopped behind the truck in his pickup, but Mrs. Easter failed to stop and slammed into Richey's vehicle. The pickup was knocked into the rear of the tractor- trailer. The truck driver, Johnny Sisco, 22, of Sikeston was uninjured.

SeMo Men Named To State Panel

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today appointed seven Southeast Missouri men to a statewide Citizen's Committee for State Reorganization.

Purpose of the committee is to familiarize voters with the proposed constitutional amendment to streamline state government which will appear on the Aug. 8 primary ballot.

The committee is headed by co-chairmen Robert Brookfield, Mexico Newspaper publisher, and Dutton Brookfield, Kansas City business executive and civil leader.

Serving on the committtee are the Republican and Democratic state chairmen; heads of labor, business, farm, women's and civic organizations, public officials and educators.

Members from Southeast Missouri are: Harry Naeter of Cape Girardeau, president of the Missouri Press Association; Senator A. M. Spradling, Jr., of Cape Girardeau; Dean A. C. Sullivan, Jr. of Flat River, Mineral Area Junior College; Sheriff W. J. Simmons of Charleston; Earl Jarvis of Sikeston; Tom F. Baker, III, of Essex; and Joseph C. Welman of Kennett.

The proposed amendment consolidates the state government's 440 separate programs into not more than 14 departments. It grew out of two years of study by the bi-partisan State Reorganization (Little Hoover) Commission.

Another commission recommendation, enacted last year, provides an Office of Administration, designed to assist the next and succeeding governors in implementing reorganization.

"Missouri has before it a challenging opportunity and a rare one," the governor said.

"It is a unique moment when a basic improvement of state government has so much going for it. The necessary study and planning has been done. The tools to implement it have been provided.

"What is needed now is widespread understanding and support of the amendment.

"We must upgrade the state government's ability not only to meet the problems of today, but also to meet the challenges of tomorrow."

MINER — Fire completely destroyed a vacant home on Route H north of Miner Friday night.

The Miner Fire Department was called to the scene at 11:15 p.m. but was unable to save the house. Fireman say the cause of the blaze is undetermined. A trash pile burning behind the house since Thursday, may be responsible for the fire, they said.

The house was recently purchased by Sonny James from Charles Houtchins.

Fire swept through eight acres of an uncut rye field about 6:30 p.m. Friday on the Castor Alsup farm on Ables Road.

The fire spread from a wheat field on the farm which was being burned off.

Demos Propose Cradle To Grave Insurance

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A Democratic Party platform plank promising every American cradle-to-grave comprehensive health insurance was proposed today by Sen. Edward M. Ke nnedy, D-Mass., and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, DArk.

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Kennedy, chairman of the Senate health subcommittee, reported broad agreement on services and coverage under a plan that Congress may be asked to consider next year. They made their joint presentation to a platform committee panel conducting the latest in a series of open regional hearings.

The issue of paying for health insurance was not mentioned in the statement of agreement. Kennedy has proposed direct government financing through Social Security and general taxes, but Mills indicated he favors retaining existing health insurance carriers and requiring some employer-employe premium payments.

Even with this major element unresolved, the Mills-Kennedy proposal marked a step toward an agreed Democratic alternative to President Nixon's relatively limited plan requiring employers to offer private health insurance and pay most of the premium.

Moreover, although neither senator may have intended it, the Mills-Kennedy collaboration inevitably took on overtones of presidential politics. Mills, a self-described long-shot contender for the Democratic nomination, is among the Southerners working to prevent a first-ballot convention choice of Sen. George S. McGovern.

Mills recently said he would consider a vice presidential nomination, but only if Kennedy were the presidential candidate. Meanwhile, there has been persistent speculation that Kennedy might be persuaded to accept the second spot on a McGovern ticket.

Kennedy, while not absolutely closing the door on a possible vice presidential race, has insisted he does not intend to run for either post this year and does not now see any likelihood of circumstances that could change his mind.

"We do not propose that the federal government own or manage the American health system," Mills and Kennedy said.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL
U.S.A. 1869-1971

For every football fan, and every friend of one! The National Football Foundation and the Football Hall of Fame have just issued their first official book. It covers the game in a very enjoyable manner from its first nostalgic beginnings to the classic clashes of today.

Ten years in the making, the book has 560 pages, with 640 photos. Thumbing though its pages you will smile: "I remember him" or "I never knew that!"

It is three books in one. Part I is full of facts and anecdotes about the first 100 years of football. Part II has short biographies of every player (290 of them) and coaches (65) who have been elected to the Football Hall of Fame. Part III has the all-time records of 150 major colleges. Every All-America team since 1889. Conference standings since 1876. Bowl game results from 1902-1972.

There are many more facts and figures. How the huddle developed, how the rules changed. Famous rivalries, great upsets and much more is there. Plus pictures, pictures, pictures.

An intimate part of our folklore, a vast body of fact and legend has accumulated about the game. Why did Rockne say that "all football comes from Stagg"? What about Pop Warner? Why was Frank Leahy called "The Master"? What about Bud Wilkinson?

The book is a treasure of information, a pleasure to read. Who has the best win percentage? Who has the most wins? The list is endless. The book is a masterpiece. (For further information send a card to: Sports Galore, 86 Riverside Drive, New York, N.Y. 10024)

We have noticed in some of the papers where the County Clerks have given out an issue which notified the candidates for County Offices how much money they could spend in the campaign, for both the Primary and General Election. The legislature at the last session passed a law setting expenditures for electioneering to cover everything, announcements, cards, bumper stickers, placards, radio and television advertising as well as newspaper advertising, not to exceed $25.00 for each 100 votes that were cast for President in 1968. In Scott County there were 18,095 votes cast for President which means that the maximum that can be spent by any candidate for County Office is $4,523.75, and as a warning, we would recommend that each candidate keep very accurate account of the amount of money that he spends for all purposes, because we don't know if, as the Republicans seem to think, that they are going to capture all the state offices and lot of the county offices in the State of Missouri, if they do the candidates that win in the Democratic Primary and General Election, will have to stand a visit from an inspector and they will have to have the amount of money that they spent itemized, so you can take this or leave it, but that is the way it is.

SOUTHWESTERN
DROUGHT

Summers were usually sunny and dry in the Middle Atlantic and New England states during the mid-1960s. It was perfect beach-going weather. Unfortunately, it was typical drought weather, too. For more than four years, the northeastern portion of the United States was so short of rainfall that restrictions on water consumption were imposed in a number of areas.

The East has since returned to its accustomed condition of ample rainfall. But now the Southwest, perennially short of precipitation, is in the grip of a drought of Dust Bowl proportions. "From Southern and Central California through Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico, it has sucked the earth dry," Jim Stingley reported in the Los Angeles Times (May 23, 1972). "In major portions of those states, precipitation has not been recorded in nearly five months. In those areas, it is the driest such period in history."

Farmers in the stricken areas hope for relief in July. That is the month when summer storms from the Gulf of Mexico ordinarily deposit stubstantial rain on portions of Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, and Utah. It is possible, though, that deliverance is some years distant. History shows that severe droughts in the Far West occur roughly once every 20 years. The last previous one began in 1950 and reached its peak -- or nadir -- in 1953. Two decades earlier, there was the Dust Bowl. Yet another classic period of western drought occurred in the last 1880s and early 1890s and gave impetus to the political movement known as populism. Neo-populism is on the march again this year, but any connection between it and the parched earth of the Southwest is purely coincidental.

NOTHING EQUAL TO
U. S. LEISURE BOOM

A feature in the U. S. News & World Report gives some interesting facts about the "Leisure Boom," and if there has been a recession it is surely not discernible in these facts.

People are spending about $105 billion on leisure in 1972. Leisure spending exceeds the nation's national defense costs. It outstrips spending for new homes and total corporate profits of all American businesses. Leisure spending is larger than the aggregate income of U. S. farmers. In spite of complaints over the inability to keep up with taxes and inflation, a great many people have more free time.

A really astounding part of the leisure boom study is that dealing with where and how leisure time money is spent. Some $40 billion will go this year for vacation pleasure travel. Another $7.5 billion will go for travel abroad in 1972. Recreation - sports equipment and activities will take another $50 billion. Another $5.5 billion will be spent for vacation land and lots. Another $2 billion will go for second homes -- retreats to escape from the pressures of city life. A further breakdown of these leisure billions almost seems to indicate a nation trying to get away from itself. There are some four million camping vehicles ranging from $300 trailers to $25,000 self-propelled "motor homes." Where the roads end, snowmobiles, dune buggies, minibikes and other recreational vehicles take over. Other recreation outlets are skiing, golf, tennis, cycling, etc. Eleven million people in 1971 spent $45 million on water skis alone.

So you can see why the estimated 75 per cent of the U. S. population that is involved in some sort of outdoor recreation has meant an astronomical increase in traffic for national parks and other recreational areas. U. S. News says, "... the National Park Service expects a record 212 million visitors to its areas this year. The Army's Corps of Engineers, responsible for 8.5 million acres of land and water, anticipates more than 300 million visitors to its preserves."

The figures on the leisure boom are as endless as they are stunning in size. For instance, gained from an estimate of the American Automobile Association, there will be $40 billion spent on domestic pleasure travels. Motorists will drive in excess of 300 billion miles -- merely getting to and from vacation areas.

While we may search for comparisons of the U. S. leisure boom around the world, nothing like it in America has ever happened in history. And it has happened notwithstanding recessions, high taxes, inflation, unemployment and all the other contradictory elements we see around us.

The duller your job is and the lower your educational achievement is, research has disclosed, the more likely you are to indulge in high-risk hobbies and sports, such as skydiving and car racing. People who do this are seeking the status and recognition they don't get from their regular work.

Living in a temperate climate helps cut down on the number of heart attacks. Their incidence is higher during temperature extremes of either heat or cold. They reach a peak during the winter in New York and Chicago, during the summer in Dallas and New Orleans.

For fat people whose very lives are threatened by their overweight—100 pounds or more—there is available an operation of last resort called a gastric bypass. It closes off 90 per cent of the stomach so that only 10 per cent receives food. The patient loses weight because it makes him uncomfortable to eat too much.

IT DOESN'T HAPPEN HERE

In St. Louis, Kansas City and other metropolitan centers, political party committees are endorsing candidates for nomination in the August primary.

That doesn't happen in Monroe County, and we're happy it doesn't.

We've never figured it was the business of a party county or ward committee to commit itself before the primary—only after the primary.

Committeemen and committeewomen are chosen by the rest of us to ELECT the nominee, not to SELECT the nominee.

AGAIN, SCHOOL BUSING

The will of the majority, it seems, continues to be ignored. The Administration in Washington has professed sympathy and promised to set in concert with that will on the issue of school busing. Candidates in state primaries who were on record against school busing for the sake of racial balance scored lop-sided majorities. Referendum votes elsewhere showed the majority of the electorate against busing.

Nashville, Tenn., school children will be bused across the city regardless of the expressed wishes of the people. The U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled for busing and the decision involves 48,000 children. The decision means they will not be able to attend school in their own neighborhoods. They will be exposed to the dangers of traffic accidents on the trips to and from school. They will find themselves in strange circumstances. They will not be getting better educations. They actually will not be helping race relations but they will be satisfying the mandate of the court.

Some liberal candidates for high office are complaining that office-holders have not been responsive to the needs of the people. At the same time they are espousing the cause of school busing. These candidates ought to read the public opinion polls to find out how the majority of the people actually feel about the issue of busing. The circuit courts ought to read again the Supreme Court decisions on school integration. These lower courts of appeals would find that mandatory school buisng for the sake of racial balance was not the intent of the Supreme Court. Meanwhile, the people ought to make their voices heard even in stronger tones. HLH.

WASHINGTON — The Secret Service, eager to protect its political charges from assassination, is keeping a suspicious eye on a host of celebrities.

One and all, they are known for shooting off their mouths at politicians. It's unlikely any of them would use a gun.

We have already reported that such unlikely assassins as comedians Groucho Marx and Tony Randall are on the Secret Service's suspicious list.

Now we've learned that the computerized file of 180,000 potential assassins also includes filmdom's "Godfather," Marlon Brando; television's "Arnie," "Hershel Bernardi; actor-producer Carl Reiner; conservative news commentator Paul Harvey; comedian Dick Gregory; folk singer Joan Baez; Mexican-American activist Cesar Chavez; clergyman Rev. James Groppi; and Quaker activist Lawrence Scott.

By contrast, George Wallace's accused assailant, Arthur Bremer, was nowhere mentioned in the Secret Service's vast files.

Brando aroused Secret Service suspicions because of his sympathy for the Black Panthers. "Subject attended 4-13-68 funeral of slain BPP (Black Panther Party) member," reports the Secret Service darkly. "Has made statements sympathetic to black militant causes."

As for Gregory, the Secret Service acknowledges: "Subject often speaks critically of the protectees and Administration but refrains from making threatening statements."

One of the least likely men in America to shoot a president or seek to overthrow the government is Paul Harvey, the voice of the status quo. Yet the Secret Service considers him a menace to the President because he once climbed over a security fence to get a story.

Father Groppi is accused in the Secret Service files of "demonstrating against welfare cuts" and "demonstrating in front of building where VP was speaking."

The roster of potential presidential assassins, it seems, is beginning to read like who's Who in America.

The story can now be told how James Dore, a Brooklyn boy who made good, happened to be hired as a $17,400-a-year investigator for the Federal Maritime Commission.

Whatever Dore's talents as an investigator may be, his chief qualification was the friendship of Rep. John Rooney, D-N.Y.

The irascible Rooney passes on the Federal Maritime Commission's budget and he expects the commissioners to grovel before him.

A few years back, then-Maritime Chairman John Harllee appeared before Rooney's House Appropriations Subcommittee to beg for funds. Harllee was flanked by budget experts prepared to justify every dollar in the budget.

But the old curmudgeon showed little interest in how many millions the Federal Maritime Commission planned to spend. What he was concerned about was the failure of his friend, Jim Dore, to land a job as an investigator.

If Dore wasn't hired, indicated Rooney, a lot of other people would be out of jobs, too. For he would cut the commission's budget, or perhaps hold up the whole amount until Dore got his job.

Rooney's threat was vivid enough that those in attendance remember it clearly. We contacted Harllee, now retired, to ask about his recollections.

When we pressed him, he recounted the incident: "Rooney had absolute power. He requested me to hire the guy in a very strong, forceful manner, in no uncertain terms. There was every indication that he would cut the budget, or hold it up if we did not comply. In the interest of the other employees, I hired the guy.

"And I'll tell you," Harllee added with a somber little chuckle, "Rooney didn't cut the budget as much that year as usual."

The details of Rooney's pressure tactics, of course, were carefully censored from the record of his subcommittee by the crafty chairman.

Footnote: Dore denies any knowledge of Rooney's pressure. "I happened to be looking for a job and he's an old family friend for years," said Dore. Rooney didn't return our calls.

Hate Idol -- The late Merwin K. Hart, the notorious anti-Semite and apostel of hate, was eulogized by his disciples the other evening at New York City's swank Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Showing up to extol him were Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., and Georgia's Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox. Awards were also granted to two legislators, Sen. Harry Byrd, Ind-Va., and Rep. John Schmitz, R-Calif. A spokesman for Crane confessed that the congressman spoke at the gathering because he was paid $700. "We will probably chech into groups more carefully in the future," said the spokesman. The offices of Maddox, Byrd and Schmitz claimed they had no knowledge of Hart's anti-Semitic record.

Free Treasure -- Beware of a treasure chest, brimming with free Florida vacations and free household products, offered by Market Development Corp. Neither the vacations nor the products, it turns out, are free. Deep in the tiny print, the prize winners are informed that the transportation to Florida isn't included and "a small additional charge" may even be required for the hotel reservations. And, before any products are delivered, there's the small matter of a $15 service charge. We reached Market Development in Cincinnati but were given the runaround by the company's president, Ray Anderson, and lawyer. Arnold Morelli.

Message to Guerrillas: skyjacked pilots now being probed

WASHINGTON — Some of that elite working-class corps, namely the $50,000 - to $75,000 a-year- commercial jet pilots, now unusually agitated by skyjackers, have developed a strange camaraderie with their aerial abductors during kidnapped flight.

And federal agents now want to know why.

A crew member in that Western Airlines cockpit, for example, obliged his captor, Willie Holder, in flight by transmitting personal messages to Algiers. Holder, who wasn't armed at all, had a rendezvous with top American Black Panther street guerrilla warfare chiefs. The hijacker wanted to be met by a contingent of the high command of the dissident, cop-killing, explosive-laden Afro-American Liberation Army, which is headed by Eldridge Cleaver and operates globally out of its Algerian headquarters.

When Cleaver split off from the Oakland-based Black Panther Party, he took with him, and controlled, the organizations' International Section. But he has passed this on to Felix "Pete" O'Neal, a former Kansas City, Mo., Panther chapter leader. Cleaver long has needed money for a return to the U.S. to whip up street fighting, indiscriminate killing of patrolmen, black and white, and to stir a Latin American brand of blood and terror. And that puts it mildly. Just examine Cleaver's publications "Right On" and "Babylon" for evidence that the above analysis of Cleaver strategy is understatement, indeed.

This takes time and money. So Cleaver handed O'Neal the International Section and plans to spend his time developing and implementing his tactics for the razing of American's Babylons -- mostly such big cities as New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Cleveland, et al.

He's been rejected even by his former California comrades and has but a small band of some 250 hard-core thugs here in the states. But he believes money could remedy his failure to whip up a larger force.

So, back to the cockpit of the Western Airlines plane flying the skyjacker and his girl to Algeria. The "pirate" Willie Holder told the flight crew to dispatch his message to the Cleaver-O'Neal headquarters. The message was radioed to Algiers. Why?

They were sky high. There were only the crew and the couple. The young kidnappers weren't about to blow themselves into the ocean now that they had successfully dragooned the plane empty of passengers.

Later one of the pilots spoke of Holder in flattering terms. This was after Holder was met by O'Neal and Cleaver, In effect, this crew action appears to put that honorable stamp of political refugees on the couple. Nor is this the first time such apparent admiration has been expressed.

This had irked some labor officials and Federal investigators including those Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and FBI men responsible for counteracting aerial piracy.

Other labor people are irritated by the pilots' elitism. No one expects the flight deck men to go dashing off into the bright blue yonder to wrestle down armed abductors. But neither do members of other unions believe the pilots have done anything more than fly their craft home from sanctuary airports.

Especially angered are the Transport Workers Union (TWU) (AFL—CIO) national officials led by Marty Guinan, a mild-styled chap but a tough Irish fighter when he takes off. What's riled the TWU is the FAA's announcement of a proposed rule-making (72-7) session which will consider making it mandatory for all flight decks to be bullet and bomb proff and to be locked in. Thus when a hijacker releases passengers, the pilots and navigators can slip out the forward emergency door leaving the plane earth-locked. But, says the TWU, this would also leave the stewards and stewardesses, of which the TWU has 20,000 as hostages under the gun or knife or grenade.

This proposed rule 72-7 has been supported by the Air Line Pilots Assn. (APLA) (AFL-CIO), which has some 15,000 cabin attendants of its own. So Guinan and colleagues have demanded that ALPA reject and fight the rule. But no word yet from the pilots who called on the rest of the AFL-CIO to back up their boycott plan. The powerful International Assn. of Machinists (AFL-CIO) of which airport maintenance personnel are members, also is giving the pilots a long cool stare.

There is a pervading feeling in many circles that the pilots though they sit it out, could do more. They did not have to transmit the message of Holder who reportedly told Pete O'Neal that some of the $500,000 extorted from his Western Airlines hijacking was to be spent on a fight against "Zionism" and for the Arabs and "Palestinians."

And why have there been such long stretches of silence from the pilots amid scores of hijacking? And why would they back the proposed safety rule which would put hostesses in skyjackers' hands? And why have they not fraternized and consulted with their lesser paid and less glamorous airport and in-flight co-workers?

That's the sentiment.

U.S. Deactivates Last Infantry Unit

SAIGON (AP) — The United States today deactivated its last remaining infantry brigade in South Vietnam, officially ending its ground combat role but continuing the commitment of a 100,000-man air and naval force to the war.

U. S. air and naval forces again heavily bombarded North Vietnam, but stayed below the 20th parallel 70 miles south of Hanoi to avoid any incidents during the visit of Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny to the North Vietnamese capital.

The U. S. Command reported that Air Force, Navy and Marine fighter-bombers carried out more than 320 air strikes against North Vietnam Friday. More than 350 strikes were flown over the North the previous day.

The major raids Friday included attacks on the Dong Phong Thuong railroad bypass bridge nine miles northeast of Thanh Hoa near the 20th parallel, 200 miles north of the demilitarized zone, and renewed strikes on MIG air bases at Bai Thuong, Khe Phat and Quan Lang. Navy and Air Force pilots reported knocking out the bridge and 30 railroad boxcars and setting off one large fuel fire. Runways and taxiways at the three MIG airfields were reported cratered in 15 different places.

The Command announced the phaseout from Vietnam of the 3rd Brigade, 1st Air Cavalry Division, the last full infantry brigade remaining in the war zone.

The Command said the move would cut American strength in Vietnam by 2,590 troops.

The disclosure that the brigade was being deactivated came less than 24 hours after the Command announced the start of the pullout of the only other remaining brigade, the 196th at Da Nang. Sources disclosed earlier that seven Air Force and Marine fighter- bomber squadrons at the Da Nag base had begun shifting their operations to three bases in Thailand.

One battalion of the 3rd Brigade and some helicopter units reportedly will remain behind for the present time as a ready reaction force operating under a regional command and not as part of the brigade. This will mean roughly 500 to 700 frontline infantrymen remaining in the entire southern half of South Vietnam.

Wallace Operation Sunday

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace will undergo major surgery here Sunday to remove a bullet from his spinal canal and, if all goes well, he still is expected to attend the Democratic National Convention.

"We fully expect that with a good recovery he will be in Miami," Billy Joe Camp, the governor's press secretary, said at a news conference Friday.

Wallace has been hospitalized here since May 15 when he was shot at Laurel, Md., as he campaigned for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Surgeons removed one bullet from Wallace's left side the day he was shot.

The remaining bullet, which is lodged in his spinal canal, paralyzed his legs. Doctors say they will not know if the spinal cord is cut or damaged until they operate.

More Agencies Put Under Merit System

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Two more big state patronage agencies have been put under the merit system by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, effective July 1. Both have come under legislative fire in recent years.

They are the Division of Budget and Comptroller of the Division of Planning and Construction. He said continuity of employment and professional expertise is needed in these agencies because of the complexity of their work.

The executive order issued Friday exempted John C. Vaughn, comptroller and budget director, Purchasing Agent Robert L. Norris, and John D. Paulus, director of planning and construction.

Other employes and any new employes in the new fiscal year will have to take merit examinations as soon as the personnel advisory board sets up tests and job qualifications.

The governor said the legislature already has approved the principle of extending the merit system to such housekeeping agencies when it passed last year a bill to create a commissioner of administration under the governor's office to handle day-to-day affairs effective next January.

Labor Council Endorses State Congressmen

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Members of the state Labor Council, AFL-CIO, were to meet today to ratify the preliminary endorsement they gave Friday toall incumbent Missouri congressmen.

The council made no endorsements intthe races for governor or lieutenant governor.

About 25 members of the council from all parts of Missouri endorsed state Rep. Charles Broomfield, D-Kansas City, in the 6th Congressional District where Rep. William R. Hull, D-Weston is retiring. They left the 7th District of southwest Missouri without endorsement. Rep. Durward Hall, RSpringfield, is not seeking reelection in that district.

The council turned down recommendations of the Greater Kansas City Labor Council, which had endorsed Democrat Edward Dowd of St. Louis and Republican Christopher "Kit" Bond for the governor's race.

The state council also failed to follow Kansas City's recommendations to endorse state Rep. Jack J. Schramm, D-University City, for lieutenant governor.

The state council endorsed Democratic Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick for reelection. The members chose state Rep. E. J. "Lucky" Cantrell, D-Overland, as their candidate for state treasurer. They made no endorsement in the race for attorney general.

VA Hospital Dedicated At Columbia

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The nation's 167th Veterans Administration hospital was dedicated here today and President Nixon sent a message reaffirming his support for an independent Veterans Administration health care system.

The President's message was significant, according to Donald E. Johnson, Nixon's administrator of veteran affairs, because there is growing sentiment in Congress to incorporate the VA hospitals in a national hospital system.

With the numerous proposals for national health insurance due to be discussed during the next Congress, Johnson said in a press conference, there will be a "realignment of the nation's health delivery system" soon. And many of these plans, Johnson said, do not take the VA hospitals into account.

More than 1,000 people attended the dedication ceremonies on the new hospital's grounds. Among them were Yukio Satoh, the second secretary of the Japanese Embassy in Washington, and White House representatives Peter Millspaugh, deputy special assistant to the President, and John F. Evans, assistant director of the President's Domestic Council. Also in attendance were several members of Congress, state legislators, Universityof Missouri officials, two Congressional Medal of Honor winners, several representatives of veterans organizations and the public.

Behind the special guests on the platform stood the squat, beige, $15 million hospital building, six stories high, which when fully operational will have 460 beds. The hospital took more than four years to build and was officially opened April 1.

In his speech, Johnson said the newest hospital was more evidence that the American people have accepted "fully and freely the charge and the challenge which Abraham Lincoln gave them when he told them 'to care for him who shall have borne the battle.'"

The VA hospital system, Johnson said, will have a budget of almost $2.75 billion during the next fiscal year. This, he went on, "is an increase of more than $1 billion in just three years since President Nixon appointed me as his administrator of veterans affairs."

Teacher Study Group Visits In Sikeston

Britts Department Store was host to members of the 1972 Missouriana Study Tour Friday. The group, comprised of Missouri history teachers seeking masters and doctoral degrees, toured Britts and Kingsway Plaza Mall under the direction of John O. Woodyard, manager of Britts.

The tour group was divided into small groups for a closer look at the various departments at Britts. Key store personnel acted as guides and answered questions on retailing.

The study tour is from Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg and is under the guidance of Dr. Agnes Horton, tour director, and Delbert Wells, manager of education - agribusiness for the Missouri Chamber of Commerce. The tour provides an opportunity for the teachers to visit various businesses throughout the state and study their operations and procedures.

Tour members dined at the Holiday Inn with Britts representatives as guest speakers. Woodyard, E. S. Conlon, regional manager, and E. J. Cairo, divisions personnel and operations manager, spoke about operations at Britts.

The tour started from Warrensburg on Monday. Hallmark Cards, Inc., at Kansas City, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Lonejack and Powell Reforestation Project at Licking were among the group's stops en route to Sikeston.

Today the group is touring the Bootheel area and Sunday will be in Cape Girardeau. Monday the group will tour businesses in the Cape Girardeau County and Scott City area. It will depart for the St. Louis area on Tuesday and arrive back in Warrensburg on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Kirk Ludwig

Ludwig-Gramling

KENNETT — The marriage of Teresa Ann Gramling and Timothy Kirk Ludwig was solemnized last Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at First Baptist Church. The Rev. Sam Stewart of Paragould, Ark., performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm O. Gramling, 205 Homecrest Blvd., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roy Ludwig of Cape Girardeau.

The altar of the church was decorated with two pedestals of white mums, blue poms, babies breath and ivy. A satin prayer pillow made by the bride was placed in front of the candle arch.

Charles P. McGinty, Jr., of Cape Girardeau, soloist, accompanied himself on the guitar. A Regina - 1885 muxic box, restored by the groom's father, played the Lohengrin Wedding March as the bride came down the aisle.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of organza with scalloped - cotton Guipure Venise lace outlining the neckline and forming a redingote effect in the skirt that swept to a Venise edged watteau chapel train.

Her elbow-length, white, double-layered tulle veil was edged with white Chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses with blue babys breath and white satin streamers.

Deranna Lee Gramlin of Kennett, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Heather Rosemary Wilkey of Kennett and Mrs. Thomas Russell of Little Rock, Ark. The junior bridesmaid was Julie Elizabeth Gramling of Kennett, sister of the bride.

The attendants wore blue and white floral gowns with long flowing skirts. They were of silk organza over deep blue taffeta with an empire waist, blue organza sashes, puffed sleeves and scooped rounded necklines.

The maid of honor carried an all white mum with blue and white streamers. The bridesmaids each carried a white mum tipped in blue with blue streamers. Their hair was pulled from the face to a low crown position and held with a tiny bow and two blue daisies.

Thomas Arthur Ludwig of Columbia, cousin of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Leigh Norman Brasington of Memphis, Tenn., Thomas Sylvester Russell of Little Rock, Ark., and Donald Beattie of Jackson. Ushers were Gaylon Rogers of Kennett and Beattie. Tim Gramling, brother of the bride, was the candlelighter.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church. The bride's table was covered with lace and set with two crystal candelabras and crystal mint and nut dishes.

The white three-tiered wedding cake was topped with an arrangement of blue daisies. The serving table was decorated with a centerpiece of white daisies, blue poms and babys breath.

Serving were Mrs. Melvin Simpson and Sally Goettleman, both of St. Louis, and Patricia Diane Pelts of Kennett.

The couple left for a back-packing and camping tour through Missouri, Iowa and the Rockie Mountains. They will live in Sikeston after July 13 where Ludwig will be on the news staff of The Daily Standard as the wire news editor. He is also a professional photographer. Ludwig graduated from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau in May.

Mrs. Ludwig will continue her education at SeMo State where she will be in her senior year working toward a bachelor of science degree in education with a major in art.

Litter And Not Discarded Film Causes Animals' Death

Dear Ann Landers: Thirty years ago the San Francisco Society For The Prevention of Cruelty To Animals launched a campaign to trade guns for camers. The society gave a camera to every child who turned in a weapon. Most weapons were air rifles or .22 caliber rifles. Large numbers were received and taken out of circulation. The campaign was considered a big success.

The idea, of course, was to protect small animals, birds and an occasional human who fell victim to the dubious skill of a young marksman. A camera, it was believed, would substitute a constructive pastime for one that often led to suffering.

Times have changed. Today, thanks to modern science, a careless photographer armed with nothing but a camera can visit death on a deer, fish, or his own dog. The harm is done by poisonous chemicals in the peeled -off film of the finished print. Unaware of this, most photographers discard the film wherever they happen to take the picture. A committee of concerned citizens interested in saving wildlife learned that nearly 400 hoofed animals and thousands of fish die every year in our national parks -- poisoned by careless photographers.

The solution is simple. Those who use an instant camera should carry a litter bag or put the discarded film in their pockets and dispose of it safely on return. - Oakland Reader

Dear Oak: I am printing your letter to educate my readers - but not in the way that you think. The lesson here is DON'T BELIEVE EVERYTHING you hear or read.

The information contained in your letter is completely false. Both the National Park Service and the U.S. Forest Service are cooperating with Polaroid to correct a completely cockeyed news story which has been circulating all over the country. The story was published in many reputable newspapers and wildlife magazines put out by highly respectable organizations such as the Sierra Club.

Polaroid has conducted extensive tests on the discarded film material and all results show that the negative tabs do not contain hazardous substances.

The Polaroid Company investigated many animal deaths which allegedly resulted from poisoning by the discarded film. It was determined that these animals died from physical blockage of the digestive tract, a result of eating paper cups, candy wrappers, and newspapers. They were not poisoned by discarded film. To encourage camera owners to dispose of discard material properly. Polaroid has made a technical change in the foil wrap around the pack. It zips open and become a litter bag.

So the problem isn't cameras or candy wrappers. It's the human slob who throws his trash around. I'd like to see the SPCA go back to substituting camersas for guns. It's a great idea.

Dear Ann Landers: From time to time you print letters from compulsive talkers -- folks who hang on to the floor by connecting every sentence to the next with "and... a...." This can be frustrating for people who have to listen. Please tell me what to do about my aunt who comes to visit every August. She talks incessantly because she is hard of hearing. I do love her, Ann, but I swear she doesn't hear one-eighth of what is said. Don't suggest a hearing aid. She had a drawer full. She says they make her nervous. What should I do? --Uppa Crick

Dear Uppa: Nod periodically. Smile. Think about something else.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "B ugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to this newspaper.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Harper

Cotton Crop To Be Best In Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government and trade officials say U.S. cotton exports can pick up substantially if the 1972 crop materializes as indications are it will.

Foreign buyers are looking favorably at U.S. cotton, mainly because of prospects now for the biggest crop in years, the Agriculture Department says. Growers have plated about 13.5 million acres for 1972, according to surveys, a 10 per cent boost from 1971.

Barring severe setbacks, this year's crop could total around 12 million bales, the most since 1965. For some years now, cotton output has not kept pace with domestic and export demand, forcing re serves to 20year low levels

Now, says the department, foreign buyers are watching the 1972 crop closely and are indicating they will be into the U.S. market heavily later on.

The rosier outlook was included in reports by two trade teams which recently visited foreign importers in Europe and Asia.

Already, according to preliminary reports filed by the two groups, foreign buyers have bought U.S. cotton for delivery during the 1972-73 season.

Although improving somewhat the past two years, U.S. cotton exports have been far below the high marks of the past 15 years—nearly 7.6 million bales in 1956, for example, and as much as 4.6 million in 1966. Last year about 3.25 million bales were exported.

A larger crop would help build up reserves and enable U.S. cotton to compete on the world market, the reports indicated. However, many other problems persist, the department said.

"Steps also must be taken to bring U.S. shipping costs in line with costs for shipping cotton from other producing countries, and to reduce or eliminate losses due to work stoppages at the docks," officials said.

"These higher costs affect returns to producers," they said.

To Clamp Down On Bad Eggs

JEFFERSON CITY — On July 1 the Egg Products Inspection Act will give state and federal egg inspectors the power to clamp down on "restricted egg" -- checks, dirties, leakers, incubator rejects, inedibles and loss eggs, reports State Commissioner of Agriculture Dexter Davis.

All egg processing plants came under the new mandatory egg products inspection program on July 1, 1971. Commissioner Davis calls attention to the fact that shell eggs, as well as processed egg products, fall under the regulations of this federal law.

Restricted eggs, except checks and dirties, must be destroyed or denatured at the point of segregation or grading of the eggs so that they will not get into consumer food channels.

All plants grading shell eggs -- for restaurants, retail stores, institutions or food manufacturers; all hatcheries; and all producer-packers with more than 3,000 hens who pack for the ultimate consumer (households, retail stores, bakeries, institutions, restaurants, etc.) must register before July 1, 1972, according to Commissioner Davis and Merle Scrogin, director of Graded Egg Division, Missouri Department of Agriculture.

State and federal inspectors will checkplants grading eggs, hatcheries and egg packers at least every three months to see that they comply with the law. Other businesses that transport, ship or receive eggs may also be checked periodically.

Director Scrogin, his office force and crops of state egg inspectors attended a Shell Egg Surveilance Conference at St. Louis on May 24, conducted by the USDA Consumer and Marketing Service (C&MS) to study all aspects relative to enforcing the egg products inspection program.

Registration forms were mailed to all known packers shortly after April 1 this year. Those not receiving forms may obtain them from any C&MS poultry grading office or from:

Weed Control Methods Outlined For Soybeans

By THOMAS A. BROWN, JR.
Area Agronomy Specialist

BLOOMFIELD — Weeds are beginning to be a problem in early- planted soybeans, and farmers are wondering what herbicide to use as a post emergence weed control treatment.

Dinoseb, commonly known as Dinitro, can be used as a very early post emergence treatment when weeds make an appearance shortly after planting. A rate of two to three pounds of active ingredient per acre should be applied from the "cracking stage" until the appearance of the first true leaves. This is the first pair of leaves that appears on the plan after the cotyledons or "seed leaves".

Fair to good control is attained for a variety of weeds including barnyard grass, carpetweed, coffeeweed, cocklebur, crabgrass, jimsonweed lambsquarter, morning glory, pigsweed, purslane, ragweed, smartweed, spurge, prickly sida and velvetweed.

The above rate of application may be too low for dependable control of weeds not yet emerged. Crop injury may be expected if the application is made when the temperature exceeds 85 degrees F. and results are less effective if application is made when the temperature is below 70 degrees F. As this indicates, the time interval for the effective use of dinoseb is short.

If the emergence of soybean seedlings is not uniform, varying degrees of injury may result.

In addition to the early post emergence treatment outlined above, Dinoseb is also recommended for use as a post emergence directed spray after the beans are five inches tall. To avoid crop injury, the spray must not be applied higher than one- half the height of the soybean plant. Follow label instructions carefully in applying this treatment. This treatment may be used up to the time beans begin to bloom.

2,4-DB is recommended as a post emergence weed control chemical when cocklebur, morning glory, or both will likely reduce soybean yields. This treatment should be considered as a "salvage operation." The amine formulation of 2,4-DB should be applied as a directed spray at the rate of .2 pound of acid equivalent per acre when the first buds start to form, but not after mid- bloom. This chemical has label clearance for use when soybean plants are eight to 12 inches tall.

Treatment at this earlier stage will facilitate the use of this chemical when weeds are younger which should improve the results obtained from its use. It will also allow the treatment to be made sufficiently early that the chemical can be directed in such a manner as to allow good coverage of the weeds without necessitating that the chemical be applied "over the top" of the soybean plants. This, in turn, should result in less damage to the crop.

Best results are obtained when weeds are less than three inches tall. Weeds should be adequately covered for best results; however, the spray should be directed to contact the soybean plants no higher than four inches above the soil surface. When used as suggested, this chemical can be expected to distort soybean plants.

If the application rate and timing of treatments are carefully observed, plants can usually be expected to recover without serious permanent injury. Serious permanent injury may result if applied to soybean plants showing symptoms of diseases or if the plants are under drought stress. Beans should not be harvested within 60 days of application.

Stoneville 213 "Leading" Brand

HAYTI -- Cotton farmers in Scott County planted 86 per cent of their crop in the Stoneville 213 variety. The second leading variety planted was Auburn M accounting for five per cent of the planted acreage.

These figures were revealed by a variety survey which is conducted annually by the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, Cotton Division at Hayti.

Leading variety in the state is Stoneville 213 which made up up 64 per cent of the total acreage. Deltapine 16 ranked second with 19 per cent. Rex 66 made up five per cent and other varieties the remainder. Last season Scott County produced 13,204 bales.

Plant-Soil Analysis In Order On Many Farms

MARBLE HILL — Time is rapidly approaching for farmers to evaluate their management practices and fertility practices applied this spring. The most appropriate method of determining the success of a management practice is the measure of the yield increase. However, some practices can be readily observed over a short run. Weed control practices, for example, are readily observable.

Some fertility practices may be identified early in the spring whereas other practices may be more difficult to recognize. Where deficiencies exist a slight increase in fertility amendment is readily identifiable.

However, one limiting factor may hide an overapplication of another material. A farmer may have a potash deficiency and be applying too much nitrogen. The potash deficiency will prevent the plant from achieving the yield that the nitrogen could induce.

Plant analysis has become a method whereby we can determine the cost vs. returns situation on fertility. In the above case, the farmer could have spent his additional money for potash rather than nitrogen and increased his yield considerably. The cost analysis on higher rates of fertilizer indicates that most farmers in Missouri are not properly supplying the adequate levels of nitrogen, phosphorous and potash.

At the same time deficiencies have a tendency to occur within the gamut of the trace elements. While doing plant and soil analysis, weak points in the fertilizer program may be readily identifiable, as well as monitoring the trace element situation.

Plant and soil analysis is available through University of Missouri Extension Centers.

Tests on Missouri farms in recent years indicate that if you are a crop producer the probabilities are high that you will find some adjustment in fertilizer use is in order. The main reason for this is that fertilizer use over the past seasons and crop yields harvested have altered the fertility factor.

Sampling for plant and soil analysis is not difficult and does not take a large amount of time. Complete instructions are given in MU Guide 9131, "Sampling Plant Tissue and Soil for Analysis", which is available at any University of Missouri Extension Center.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz has decided to re-establish an Industry Advisory Committee on Foot-and-Mouth Disease.

"The United States must be on constant guard to prevent the unauthorized movement across its boundaries of animals, and other products such as fresh meat, ship's garbage, animal byproducts, hay and straw which may carry the virus of foot-and-mouth disease," Butz said.

Johnson Grass Control Tests Under Way

By PHILLIP G. STRYKER
Area Agronomy Specialist

MARBLE HILL — Johnson grass is a major problem to farmers in creek bottoms and river bottoms in Southeast Missouri. In some cases it has limited or dominated the cropping pattern chosen by farmers.

There are many methods being attempted to control Johnson grass and still produce a respectable yielding row crop. One example is the Johnson grass control research and demonstratiion plot two miles west of Interstate 55 on Highway 72.

This field is on the R. B. Potashnick farm and is heavily infested with both rhyzome and seedling Johnson grass. George Schafer was looking for a method to continue row crop production without having to fallow the soil for one full season.

There are 30 different herbicide treatments in this test. Several of these are showing promising results for the control of Johnson grass. Farmers who have Johnson grass problems should observe this demonstration area.

Included in many of these treatments is a seed protectant which allows a higher rate of a material to be used without damaging the germination of the seed.

Broiler Chicks Are Up 6% Over Previous Year

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — For the week ended June 3, a total of 555,000 chicks were placed for broilers in Missouri — six per cent more than for a similar period last year and 12 per cent more than the previous week.

The Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said of the chicks placed, 286,000 were received from other states, while Missouri hatcheries shipped 43,000 to other states.

Missouri hatcheries set a total of 355,000 eggs for broilers during the week ending June third.

Eggs set were six per cent more than for a similar week last year, but down eight per cent from the previous week.

Weed Control Tour Set At Delta Center

PORTAGEVILLE — A farmer tour of weed control research will be held at 9 a.m. June 30 at the University of Missouri Delta Center farm six miles east of Portageville, according to Joe H. Scott, state agronomy specialist.

Weed control methods in cotton and soybeans will be pointed out and discussed by Dr. Harold Kerr and Curt Royster, weed control researchers at the Delta Center.

Comparison of postemergence treatments for most effective weed control in cotton and soybeans will be observed during the tour.

A pesticide combination study consisting of fungicides, insecticides and herbicides is also included in the tour, which will be completed by noon.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Favorable planting weather in the Corn Belt and a big push to windup cotton planting in some areas of the South helped boost the nation's farm employment in late May, says the Agriculture Department.

A monthly survey showed the total labor force at 4,922,500 during the week of May 21, an increase of about 163,000 from a year earlier.

Butz Promises Fight Against Meat Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz says with beef prices up, there could be more talk of price controls.

In two speeches Thursday in the cattle country of Nebraska and South Dakota, the secretary said if there is, "you can count on me to fight again to place the facts on the food situation before all our people."

Any move to impose farm price ceilings, he said, would throw the worst kind of monkey wrench into the whole food marketing mechanism.

"I firmly believe that, as long as the people understand the economic facts at work in the beef industry, unwise controls will not be imposed which would be grossly unfair to cattlemen and grossly unwise for consumers and ythe nation."

He said people need to know that there are no price supports on meat, and no production controls.

"Those who remember the mess we got into when the government imposed war time meat price controls dread to think of going back to the shortages, the black markets, the rationing, the under-thecounter favoritism, and all the other unpleasantness that came with meat price regulations," he said. "I'm going to fight against that."

The secretary said increased demands for meat are putting new upward pressures on food prices. But consumers, he said, "must take into account the subnormal income levels of farmers. They must be prepared to pay the going price for higher quality foods—and meals eaten out in luxurious surroundings—just as they expect to pay the going price for golf clubs, new cars and vacation trips," he said.

Unfair Milk Sales Practices Now Outlawed

JEFFERSON CITY - Commissioner of Agriculture Dexter Davis and Ruben Schapeler, director of dairy program, announced today that compliance with the rules and regulations issued pursuant to the unfair milk sales practices act is mandatory for processors and distributors as a result of a decision by Judge James T. Riley of the Cole County Circuit Court.

Many Missouri daries have been voluntarily complying with the regulations since their issuance. Enforcement had been stayed with respect to dairies who filed a petition in the Cole County Court challenging their enforceability.

The regulations require processors and distributors to file pricing information with the Missouri Department of Agriculture for approval. They also prohibit discriminatory pricing practices that tend to destroy competition.

For processors and distributors not already in compliance, the required pricing information is to be filed no later than June 1.

Karnes Named All-American

OKLAHOMA CITY — Morris L. Karnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Karnes of Essex Route One, was named last week as one of three All-American pitchers in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Karnes, who pitches for the Oklahoma Christian College Eagles in Oklahoma City, had a record of 13-1 out of the team's 30-10 record. The Eagles ended the season last week by tying for third place in the NAIA tournament in Phoenix.

Karnes, a 1969 graduate of Scott County Central, is majoring in physical education at OCC. He was recently named to the NAIA District 9 All-Star team and will be listed in Outstanding College Athletes of America.

Fans Love Allen

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's fans love Dick Allen, and they still love Brooks Robinson.

That was evident today from the first results of the countrywide balloting for the American League All-Star team which showed Allen and Robinson as the leading vote-getters.

Allen, the controversial first baseman for the Chicago White Sox, who is among the league leaders in home runs, runs batted in and batting, was named on 96,633 of the 217,029 ballots cast.

Robinson, the Baltimore third baseman who some felt had lost favor with the fans during the baseball strike, finished second in the first tabulation of votes with 94,841.

The other infield leaders were Rod Carew of Minnesota at second base with 74,423 votes and Luis Aparicio of Boston at shortstop with 57,074.

The three leading outfield candidates were Reggie Jackson of Oakland, Lou Piniella of Kansas City and Carlos May of Chicago.

The tightest battle in the balloting for starting berths in the All-Star Game to be played at Atlanta July 25 is for the catching position. Bill Freehan of Detroit leads with 56,167 votes to 42,693 for Thurman Munson of New York.

Cardinals Drop 6-1 Contest

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Known as a curve baller, Don Carrithers departed from form and fastballed his way past the St. Louis Cardinals for the San Francisco Giants Friday night.

The 6-foot-2 Carrithers, who hadn't pitched since June 4, filled in for ailing Juan Marichal and won 6-1 on a sevenhitter.

"Throwing every day, even while in the bullpen, has to be the big factor," the 22-year-old Carrithers declared.

"Our coach, Don McMahon, is a Johnny Sain protege and he believes in it. You've got to stay sharp if you throw every day."

Carrithers, who walked four and struck out three, had bad moments only in the opening inning as the Cards put 'ogether singles by Lou Brock and Ted Sizemore with Matty Alou's ground ball for their run.

After that he wiped out a threat by picking Jose Cruz off second base the next inning and inducing Joe Torre to hit into a double play in the third.

In the meantime, teammates of the Giants right-hander had rocked Cards starter Rick Wise, 5-7, for three hits and two runs in the second and forced his exit with four hits and two runs in the third.

Lowell Palmer, the second of five Cards pitchers, held San Francisco at bay for 2 1-3 innings but Bobby Bonds rocked Al Santorini for his 10th homer scoring runs to wrap up scoring in the sixth.

Carrithers, 2-3, had not started for the Giants since losing 42 to the New York Mets May 2 at San Francisco.

While he went to the bullpen, Steve Stone and Ray Bryant moved into the starting rotation. Carrithers' return was dictated by a lower back ailment sidelining Marichal for two weeks.

"I think I only walked two guys the 20 innings I threw in the bullpen," Carrithers remarked. "I quit worrying about control. I just went out there and threw strikes."

"He hung a few curves, but that's to be expected for as long as he's been off the mound," Giants Manager Charlie Fox noted. "His fast ball held him in there."

Fox, thinking of the Giants' 20-41 record and an abundance of youth on the club, added, "It'll be a while, but when these kids put it together we're going to have some fun."

Mrs. Bain...SeMo Champ

For the third consecutive year, Mrs. Mac Bain of Sikeston has captured top honors in the Southeast Missouri Women's Invitational Golf Tournament, held this year at the Cape Girardeau Country Club Wednesday and Thursday.

Rain — sprinkles Wednesday morning and heavier showers Thursday morning — failed to deter golfers, said Mrs. H.T. Miles, Jr., a member of the tournament steering committee. "We played through the rain and came in with a record time both days," she said, noting that rain Thursday morning caused only a five-minute delay for the 98 golfers participating in the tournament.

Mrs. Bain received a trophy as her prize, with winners in the five classes each receiving a silver piece.

Top four winners in championshiop class were Mrs. Bain, Mrs. Bill Hammer, Cape Girardeau; Mrs. Billy J. Lewis, Cape Girardeau, and Ms. Buddy Godwin, Poplar Bluff; class A, Miss Harriet Hunter, New Madrid; Mrs. Woodrow West, Cape Girardeau; Mrs. Francis Lejune, Farmington, and Mrs. Carroll Williams, Cape Girardeau.

Class B, Mrs. Fred Kurre Jr., Cape Girardeau; Mrs. Carol Pennington, Poplar Bluff; Dot Estes, Bonne Terre,and Mrs. Becky Landrum, Farmington; class C. Mrs. Jim Carol Casey, Poplar Bluff; Mrs. Jim Byrd, Cape Girardeau; Mrs. Sally Keasler, Poplar Bluff, and Mrs. Nelda Oberle, Ste. Genevieve.

Class D, Mrs. Leona Brown, Jackson; Mrs. Jan Brewer, Charleston; Mrs. Pat Archambeau, Arcadia, and Mrs. John H. Mehrle Jr., Cape Girardeau.

The tournament originated at the Cape Girardeau Country Club in 1951, and was last held in 1967. Golfers from Farmington, Fredericktown, Poplar Bluff, Bonne Terre, Arcadia, Sikeston, Ste. Genevieve, Jackson, New Madrid and Cape Girardeau took part in the 36-hole event. A Hawaiian luau was held for golfers Wednesday night.

On the steering committee with Mrs. Miles were Mrs. James W. Riley, Mrs. Maurice T. Dunklin and Mrs. Jerry Estes. Mrs. Ben G. Capshaw is president on the Women's Golf Association of the country club here.

Player Strike Threatens NBA

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — The first player strike in the National Basketball Association's 26-year history was threatened today following a decision by the league's board of governors to fine nine of the 11 players who participated in last month's All-Star Game against the American Basketball Association.

After Commissioner Walter Kennedy announced Friday that the governors had unanimously passed a resolution directing him to fine each player the amount he received for playing, Larry Fleisher, executive director of the NBA Players' Association, disclosed the strike threat.

Fleicher said from New York that the association had voted unanimously at a meeting in Spain May 30—five days after the game at Uniondale, N.Y.,— that, if the owners decided to fine them for playing in the game, they would take every legal recourse—including a strike, to prevent it.

The nine players named to pay the fines were Wilt Chamberlain and Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles, Nate Archibald of Cincinnati, Archie Clark of Baltimore, Dave DeBusschere of New York, John Havlicek of Boston, Bob Lanier of Detroit, Bob Love of Chicago and Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee.

None had received permission from his club owner to play. Connie Hawkins and Paul Silas of Phoenix, the other two members of the NBA all-star squad, had been granted permission to play by Suns' owner Dick Bloch.

Kennedy said each player who participated without permission would be fined an amount equal to the sum he received for playing with the money collected to be donated to charities or research foundations.

"The concept of the board of governors attempting to fine the players for presenting a game that over 25 million Americans watched is outrageous," Fleisher said.

A section in the NBA players' standard con tract forbids them from taking part in exhibition games without the approval of their club owners.

While Kennedy was announcing the unprecedented decision at the conclusion of the two-day governors' meetings, he also disclosed: —That Abe Pollin, owner of the Baltimore Bullets, had been named to the newly created position of chairman of the board.

—That a decision on the Julius Erving case had been postponed.

—That Pollin would meet within a week with H. Wendell Cherry of the Kentucky Colonels and discuss further the proposed merger with the ABA.

—That the governors had briefly discussed the option clause, which the players association is seeking to hae dropped before approving a merger.

—And that Irving Levin and Harold Lipton, whose application to purchase the Boston Celtics had been rejected Thursday, made another presentation before the board.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The adrenalin is pumping again for Arnold Palmer— "almost too much," he says— but both the fabled charger and his army are cautious today entering the last two rounds of the 72nd U. S. Open Golf Championship.

"Sure, they give me a big lift out there—they always did" said the 42-year-old fairway idol of the 1960s, referring to the game's most famous and faithful following. "But I think they are afraid to get too hopeful. There have been too many disappointments in the p ast.'

Sinking birdies on the final two holes, a Palmer trademark, Arnie fired a four-underpar 68 Friday to move within a shot of a tough cordon of leaders still battling for an uncontested front position over Pebble Beach's 6,812 yards of terror and travail.

Crusty, gusty Pebble Beach is still the champ. After two days, none in the star-spangled field has managed to beat par.

Favorite Jack Nicklaus, himself brought crashing to earth with an unnerving string of three straight bogeys headed the jostling, elbowing crush of six tied after 36 holes at even par 144. Par for the humbling layout is 36-36—72.

Level with the reigning Masters titleholder were Australian Bruce Crampton, Kermit Zarley, Homero Blancas, Cesar Sanudo and rookie Lanny Wadkins. Wadkins, 22, 1970 National Aamateur champion and leading newcomer on the tour with more than $50000, played with Nicklaus and fired a 68, matching Palmer for the best round of the day.

Defending champion Lee Trevino, professing "I'm just trying to keep from dying" sank birdie putts of 20, 15 and 12 feet on the incoming nine—the latter for a birdie on the 18th—in shooting a par 72 that kept him in strong contention.

"I slept 20 hours—I'm stronger but my head is stopped up and I wish my ears would pop," said the Mexican-American, who got out of a hospital bed in El Paso to compete here against doctor's orders. He has been suffering from viral pneumonia.

The Mexican-born Sanudo, joining Trevino and Blancas in giving the tournament a Latin American flavor, was a late starter and at one time had the only red score—representing sub par—on the board.

He was four under par and rolling after birdies at the second, third, fourth and sixth holes on putts of three to 12 feet. Then, he said, "Everything blew up."

"I went to sleep on the eighth hole—something I've been doing for 3 1/2 years," he said. "I hooked my drive into the rough and wound up three-putting for a double bogey six. I misjudged the seventh and 11th.

Trevino was tied with five others at 146, just back of Palmer. They included Gary Player of South Africa, 72-74, Chi Chi Rodriguez 71-75; Ralph Johnston 74-72, Rod Funseth, 73-73, and Lee Elder, only black golfer in contention, 75-71.

Houston's Toy Cannon Explodes

Jimmy Wynn, Houston's Toy Cannon, went off twice Friday night. The first explosion cost him $100. The second one cost the Philadelphia Phillies a ball game.

Wynn, who carries the Toy Cannon nickname because of his size and his power, greeted reliever Dick Selma with a leadoff homer in the bottom of the 11th inning, giving the Astros a 1-0 decision over the Phillies.

Seven innings later, Wynn had picked up an automatic $100 fine for tossing his helmet in protest over a called third strike from Philadelphia starter Steve Carlton.

In other National League action Friday, New York nipped Cincinnati 2-1, Chicago chut out Los Angeles 4-0, Pittsburgh shaded San Diego 2-1, San Francisco downed St. Louis 6-1 and Montreal split a doubleheader with Atlanta, winning the opener 7-4 and dropping the nightcap 2-0.

Wynn raged at Umpire Bruce Froemming in the fourth inning after being called out on strikes. He dropped his bat across home plate and then tossed his helmet in anger as he strolled away from the umpire.

Carlton duelled on even terms first with Don Wilson and then with reliever Tom Griffin and the game remained scoreless after 10 innings. The Phillies left-hander allowed just six hits and struck out 13 before leaving for a pinch hitter in the 11th.

Dick Selma came on at the start of the 11th and it took only four pitches for Wynn to end the ball game. His ninth homer landed in the left field stands and moved the Astros into second place tie with Los Angeles in the National League West, 2 1/2 games behind Cincinnati.

The Mets snapped a sevengame Cincinnati winning streak for the second time in less than two weeks, pushing across a run in the ninth inning on Bud Harrelson's triple and a wild pitch by loser Gary Nolan.

After the triple, the Reds walked pinch hitter Tommie Agee, choosing to pitch instead to Willie Mays, whose seventh inning single had tied the score. But Mays never got the chance to be a hero because Harrelson scampered home on Nolan's wild pitch.

Steve Blass tossed a five-hitter and retired 16 San Diego batters in order, pitching the Pirates past the Padres and keeping Pittsburgh one-half game ahead of New York in the NL East.

Jim Hickman and Billy Williams cracked home runs and Burt Hooton fired a six-hitter as Chicago blanked Los Angeles.

Williams' homer was his 12th of the season and fifth in the last four games. Hickman hit No. 6 as the Cubs beat Claude Osteen, defeating a left-hander for only the third time in 12 decision this season.

San Francisco collected 11 hits including Bobby Bonds' 10th homer of the year and the Giants thumped St. Louis. Don Carrithers, pitching for the first time since June 4, scattered seven hits to pick up the victory.

The Giants jumped St. Louis starter Rick Wise for four runs and eight hits in the first three innings and Carrithers coasted after that.

Montreal rallied for four runs in the ninth inning of the opener with consecutive pinch singles by Ron Fairly and Jim Fairey driving in three of the runs to beat the Braves.

Who, Then, Is The American?

THE AMERICAN HERITAGE HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE. By Bernard A. Weisberger. American Heritage Publishing Co. $19.95.

Bernard A. Weisberger, who formerly taught history at the University of Rochester, Columbia, Stanford and New York universities, is now associate editor of American Heritage magazine. In writing what is designed, in effect, to be a social history of the American people, he seems to be trying to answer the question raised back in the 18th century by the French-born American letter writer, Crevecoeur: "What then is the American, this new man?" One cannot say the historian is really able to this date to answer it, but the attempt is interesting.

What Weisberger does is describe how the various strains — ethnic, religious, national, social, economic — were woven, frequently almost by chance, into the contemporary American people. From today's headlines, we can see that the threads do not always hold together in a homogeneous fabric.

One of the most significant quotes he gives is from a "black activist," the Rev. Jesse Jackson: "There is talk about it (America) being a melting pot. But it is really more like vegetable soup. There are separate pieces of corn, meat and so on, each with its own identity."

As with most American Heritage publications, the pictures — from old prints of the early colonial period to modern photographs illustrating the various racial groups that have become American — are exceptionally interesting. In a sort of reverse process, the most startling picture is a 1919 photograph of a pageant of Jewish history in Milwaukee, Wis. In it a girl posing as the Statue of Liberty stands beside a figure representing Abraham Lincoln.

ARTICHOKING, one might say, is this display at the Modern Art Museum in Paris, right alongside a work of yesteryear. Those "mushrooms" are entitled "Merry-Go-Round."

Leonardo Da Vinci TV's Man Of Summer

NEW YORK (AP) — Leonardo da Vinci, who painted the Mona Lisa and died more than 400 years ago, seems likely to emerge as, if not television's man of the year, at least its man of the summer.

CBS announced in March that it would present a five-part summer series dramatizing the life and works of the 15th century painter-inventor-architectscientist The programs were made for and originally shown on the Italian television network. CBS acquired them, frankly, because of the response to and prestige gained last summer when it broadcast "The Six Wives of Henry VIII," a six-part import from British television.

NBC, earlier this month, announced it would present an hour-long special called "Leonardo: To Know is to See" on June 20.

Since the CBS series had long been scheduled for five consecutive Sunday nights starting Aug. 13, this suggested a Leonardo competition.

"I have no doubt that the NBC hour can only help CBS," said Chandler Cowles, producer of the hour-long program.

"Our program is concerned with Leonardo's paintings, sketches, models and even his music, played from notes we found among the Da Vinci archives in Windsor Castle. The CBS programs are dramatizations and there should be more interest in his life because of our show."

Cowles' special was shot as an educational film under a grant from International Business Machines (for an unrevealed amount believed to be around $500,000) to the National Gallery in Washington. It was designed originally for use in schools and colleges.

"We were in Europe a year and shot 40,000 feet of film—about seven hours," Cowles said. "We have been going through the agony of cutting it, first to two hours, then one, since January. The National Gallery people saw the rough cut, were impressed, and word leaked out. A man from NBC in Washington saw it and said he would like it. He gave us a June 20 date and we're still cutting film to make it."

Dear Editor:

Congressman Bill D. Burlison's latest questionnaire had one question concerning amnesty for those Americans who left the country to avoid military service. The following is a copy of the letter I sent along with the questionnaire.

Dear Mr. Burlison:

Regarding question No. Nine. This problem goes much deeper than these draft dodgers in Canada. I am not qualified to answer this question and neither is President Nixon, Henry Kissinger or any senators or congressmen and the least qualified of all our citizens to make this decision (and any other decision concerning our country) are those millions who avoided the draft legally. There is only one group who has earned the right to make this decision and that is America's True Patriots, the men who fought the war. These men were discriminated against by their government, all of us, the expert border jumpers and the legalized draft dodgers who didn't even have to jump a border.

In whose selfish little mind did this seed of justice germinate that says it is fair to draft some men by law and completely excuse others? How do you draw any distinction between these illegal draft dodgers and the ones who dodged the draft legally? There is no moral or patriotic difference is there? Both groups escaped the draft didn't they? A real patriot comes to the defense of his country when it is threatened doesn't he? He doesn't run or use well sounding excuses to get out of doing his share does he? All able bodied young men have an equal responsibility to defend their country don't they? Given an equal set of circumstances these illegal draft dodgers could have been in the legal draft dodgers camp. Does any one doubt Harold Geneen President of I.T.T. could keep anyone out he wanted to? Edward Cox and David Eisenhower didn't really know a war was going on did they?

How easy it is to verbally support this war from a recliner in front of a color T.V. or from an air conditioned car but we all know who the real supporters are don't we?

Our politicians would rather spend ten years covering up a mistake than ten minutes admitting they were wrong and the result is little more than organized confusion.

Mr. Burlison this criticism is not directed at you, it is an attempt to remind society, while the majority of us were enjoying our personal whims, economy, fun life mink coats and etc. less fortunate American soldiers were dying in Vietnam and THAT IS WRONG.

When this war finally ends let the Vietnam veterans decide what to do with these deserters. These veterans may be big enough to grant full amnesty to those who chose to run instead of to fight and at the same time forgive all those text book heroes who sought refuge in the safety of their privileged society.

The Case Of The Shapely Smuggler

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Shapely Carol had a fantastic figure, but she didn't have the brains or common sense to match it. A known narcotics user, she went on more trips than an airline hostess.

One trip she took, however, without the aid of drugs was to Mexico. Upon her return, a customs inspector took one look into her glassy eyes and ordered her into another room where, in the presence of a doctor, she was ordered to strip.

As suspected, some of Carol's more shapely curves didn't belong to Carol. On the contrary, there were formed by hidden packages of narcotics that Carol was attempting to sneak into the United States.

Arrested and charged with smuggling, Carol was indignant.

"You can't just tell a girl to go into a room and strip her," she complained in court. "Aside from the fact that it's highly improper, it just doesn't sound very constitutional. Therefore, the search was illegal and the evidence found can't be used against me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the evidence to be used against the shapely smuggler?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a customs inspector cannot search a person's body on whim. But, he added, where there are facts present that clearly indicates smuggling, he may search a person's body in detail. Inthis case, concluded the judge, there were sufficient facts present to warrant the search. Carol was a known narcotics user, her eyes were glassy, indicating the use of drugs, etc. (Based upon a 1966 United States Court of Appeals Decision)

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Ananias went, entered the house and placed his hand on Saul. "Brother Saul," he said, "the Lord has sent me . . . so that you might see again and be filled with the Holy Spirit." (Acts 9:17, TEV)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee that brotherhood is something above and beyond blood relationship. Teach us to recognize all persons as being related to us, and may we show it by our words and in our actions. Amen.

That means many veterans have skills you can use from the moment they're hired. And if they need further training, monthly allowances under the GI Bill can supplement their wages while they are in approved training programs. ■ Hire veterans. Put their ability to work. ■ For help in hiring veterans, contact your local office of the State Employment Service; for on-the-job training information, see your local Veterans Administration office.

Churchill Memorial Is Historic Site

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Winston Churchill Memorial and Library at Westminster College in Fulton, Mo., has been declared a National Historic Site by the National Park Service, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., announced today.

Symington said he was informed by the park service this week that it's the first time a building brought in from a foreign country and then reconstructed has been recognized on the National Register of Historic Places.

The focal point of the memorial, a reconstructed church designed by architect Christopher Wren, was imported from London to Westminster College in honor of Sir Winston Churchill's "Iron Curtain" speech which he gave on the campus in 1946.

It was Anatole France who said "a dictionary is the universe in alphabetical order."

Petition Drive To Continue

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Citizen's Lobby announced today its petition campaign will continue in an effort to get a so-called "Sunshine Law" on the November ballot.

The group is still about $1,500 short of the money estimated as needed to get the required 92,000 signatures but Carl Wilson, chairman, said he was confident the money would be forthcoming.

He told a news conference today total pledges of $5,437 have been received including one post-midnight call that gave the group confidence to go on with the campaign.

The lobby had set midnight Friday as the deadline for its fund drive but early today while a staff meeting was being held, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Branstetter of Barnett called with a pledge of $25 and said they would be willing to give more.

Mrs. Branstetter apologized for the lateness of the call, Wilson said, but explained she and her husband had been hauling in their hay and it took longer than expected.

Wilson said the petition circulators are close to their goal in the 4th, 7th and 8th congressional districts. They have until July 6 to get enough signatures to put the issue on the ballot.

The proposed constitutional amendment would open to the press and public all meetings of public agencies at every level of government — school boards, city councils, legislative committees and so on.

Wilson called the issue of secrecy in government one of the most important facing the people of Missouri.

"We as citizens must stop kidding ourselves about who influences our laws in these closed door meetings,"

Mobile X-Ray Unit Records 1,198 Films

When the Christmas Seal mobile chest X-ray unit visited Scott County in April, 1,198 satisfactory films were taken.

Chest X-ray films taken during this community health survey revealed six suspicious Tuberculosis and 25 other pathology instances. The remaining 1,167 films revealed no suspicious Tuberculosis and no other pathology.

Tuberculosis work in this area is aided with funds raised from the annual Christmas Seal Campaign.

Scott County is represented on the TB and Respirator Disease Advisory Council by Dr. Thelma Buckthorpe and Dr. Carl G. Popp, both of Sikeston; K. M. Streeter of Painton; and Mrs. Berneal E. Carroll, registered nurse, Scott County Health Department in Benton.

Tuberculosis is still the leading infectious killer in Missouri. According to the society, there will be 20 million people in the U.S. in 1975 infected with TB germs. The tubercle bacillus germ is a "tricky" one; it can be dormant in the human body for years and then suddenly spring into action. One- fifth of the entire population carries the germ in either an active or inactive state, so the fight to eradicate Tuberculosis must go on.

Citizens can help by having their lungs checked annually at the mobile chest X-ray unit or by their doctors and by continuing to use Christmas Seals.

Business Education Workshop Scheduled

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A two-week business education workshop, "Structuring and Individualizing Business and Office Education," will get under way Monday at Southeast Missouri State College.

The workshop, which will run through June 30, is sponsored by the College's department of business administration and business education through a grant from the State Department of Education. It may be taken for two hours of graduate credit.

Director will be Dr. Katherine Green, visiting professor during the past year at Southeast Missouri State.

Establishing a flexible program and vocational blocks to apply to all job levels will be major objectives of the workshop, according to Dr. Gene Loftis, head of the college's business department.

Dr. Loftis added that problems of articulation in career education, reading and vocabulary building for students with special needs, and the development of classroom materials in specific areas of interest to the participants will be emphasized.

The workshop is one of four being offered this summer by the college's business department. The first, which concluded Friday, was titled "Analysis of Business Occupations." It will be repeated at South County Technical School in St. Louis for teachers in that area, beginning Monday.

The fourth workshop of the summer will also be in St. Louis July 3-14. It will be taught at O'Fallon High School.

3 Paths Open To Medicare Recipients

CAPE GIRARDEAU — People filing social security Medicare claims have three ways to receive the amounts due them, according to Clifford Forsee, district manager.

When both the physician and patient agree, the claim may be assigned to the doctor, who will receive 80 per cent of the reasonable charge from Medicare. The 20 per cent balance is the patient's obligation. Where the bills have been paid, the claimant files claim for reimbursement towards the amount paid. In those cases where the accounts have not been paid, itemized bills may be submitted. This method can help claimants meet their obligations.

Forsee added that people filing Medicare claims should remember they are responsible for the first $50 in covered medical bills each calendar year, before any payments can be made.

Anyone with a question about Medicare payments may contact the social security office at Cape Girardeau, Kennett or Flat River.

Wants New Headquarters Here

Sikeston Offers 20 Acres For Patrol Site

Sikeston is trying hard to become the new home of Missouri Highway Patrol Troop E Headquarters. Hopeful city officials are making an all-out attempt to lure the patrol to Sikeston.

The patrol is considering moving its troop headquarters from Poplar Bluff to another site. The state legislature has appropriated funds for a new building, and a bill requiring the headquarters be built in Poplar Bluff has been vetoed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

This leaves the patrol free to search for a new location, and some people feel the patrol has already decided to leave Poplar Bluff.

Officially the patrol has not ruled out Poplar Bluff, and is said to be also looking in the Dexter -- Bloomfield area. But City Manager James Huff said Friday the city is making an all-out effort to be sure "the highway patrol realizes the advantages of Sikeston."

Huff said Sikeston is offering to provide the patrol with a 20-acre site complete with all utilities. The city has options on two sites located southwest of the Interstate 55 and 57 interchange. Patrol officials also, looked at a third site which the city does not yet have option on.

Huff said it would cost $117,000 to provide water, sewer and electricity to the proposed sites.

He said the headquarters is staffed by 35 to 40 people and locating it in Sikeston would increase retail trade here by nearly $400,000 per year.

Huff said the eastern section of the Bootheel will soon have 80 per cent of the traffic in Troop E. He added that Sikeston was one of the few places in the country -- perhaps the only one outside of a metropolitan area -- where two interstate highway intersect.

Other advantages being stressed to the patrol include the quality of life in Sikeston -- the excellent hospital, the triple A-rated school system, a large retail shopping area, and a $400,000 recreation project just getting under way.

Huff said the Sikeston airport has a 4,300-foot runway capable of handling patrol aircraft, plus Sikeston is close to the Cape Girardeau airport.

Huff said Col. E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, state highway patrol superintendent, and other patrol officials were in Sikeston Thursday looking at sites and talking with city officials. Huff said no commitments were mady by the state officials, and added, "We'll know within the next couple of months whether the patrol is coming to Sikeston."

Two IGA Foodliners Robbed

The IGA Foodliners in Sikeston and Charleston were robbed of nearly $725 Friday afternoon.

Three, or possibly four, well- dressed Negro males and two well- dressed females walked into the Charleston supermarket shortly before 2 p.m. and began creating a disturbance. They are reported to have asked a cashier to take some goods off the shelf for them, and then crowded around her, blocking her view to the cash register. One of the group then emptied a cash register of $400 to $475.

The same group is believed responsible for a similar robbery of the Sikeston IGA about 2:15 p.m. where they distracted employes while one of them opened an unwatched cash register. They took $244.

Guardsmen Leave For Camp

Company C of the 1140th Engineer Battalion of the Missouri National Guard left today for its annual two-week training encampment at Camp Clark near Nevada, Mo.

The unit, commanded by Capt. Robert Little of Portageville, linked up with other units in the battalion from Cape Girardeau, Fredericktown, Jackson, Portageville and Farmington.

Company C is composed of 115 members from Sikeston and Portageville.

Lt. Col. Ronald R. Fee of Cape Girardeau, executive officer of the 135th Engineer Group, will command the two-week camp in the absence of Col. James R. Crites, executive commander, who will be attending National War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., during the two weeks of training at Nevada.

Approximately 700 members of the 1140th and the 135th will take part in the summer training exercises. Accompanying the guardsmen from this area will be about 200 members of the 220th Engineer Company and the 1136th Military Police Company, both of Jefferson Barracks, according to Maj. Lloyd W. Young of Scott City, operations and training officer of the 135th.

Tonight the guardsmen will biovouac at Springfield and arrive at Camp Clark about 10:30 Sunday morning. Maj. Young said all heavy equipment has been transported to the camp.

The 1140th will be given a 24-hour platoon level Army training test at Camp Clark. Guardsmen will be assigned normal engineer missions functioning under combat conditions. Purpose of the test is to verify their level of training.

The battalion will also construct a 4,000-foot sod airstrip; destroy by demolition an old War War I sanitary disposal and water purification plant, landscaping the site afterwards; begin construction of a 12-acre lake; construct a mile-long gravel road; clear a streambed of underbrush for about two miles and undertake other on-post projects.

The guardsmen will return about noon July 2, bivouacing at Van Buren the night of July 1.

Four Injured In Two Area Mishaps

Four persons were injured in two traffic accidents on Southeast Missouri roads Friday night, according to the highway patrol.

Two New Madrid teen - agers were injured at 10:10 p.m. in a one- car accident on Route U near New Madrid. They are Jane Ashley, 17, of New Madrid, head cuts and a possible neck injury, and Terri Nowell, 15, of New Madrid with a possible shoulder injury. Injured were Charles W. Richey, 60, of Sikeston, minor head and chest injuries, and Minnie M. Easter of Ellsinore with a possible back injury. They were taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

The truck driver, Johnny Sisco, 22, of Sikeston was uninjured.

SeMo Men Named To State Panel

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes today appointed seven Southeast Missouri men to a statewide Citizen's Committee for State Reorganization.

Purpose of the committee is to familiarize voters with the proposed constitutional amendment to streamline state government which will appear on the Aug. 8 primary ballot.

The committee is headed by co-chairmen Robert Brookfield, Mexico Newspaper publisher, and Dutton Brookfield, Kansas City business executive and civil leader.

Serving on the committtee are the Republican and Democratic state chairmen; heads of labor, business, farm, women's and civic organizations, public officials and educators.

Members from Southeast Missouri are: Harry Naeter of Cape Girardeau, president of the Missouri Press Association; Senator A. M. Spradling, Jr., of Cape Girardeau; Dean A. C. Sullivan, Jr. of Flat River, Mineral Area Junior College; Sheriff W. J. Simmons of Charleston; Earl Jarvis of Sikeston; Tom F. Baker, III, of Essex; and Joseph C. Welman of Kennett.

The proposed amendment consolidates the state government's 440 separate programs into not more than 14 departments. It grew out of two years of study by the bi-partisan State Reorganization (Little Hoover) Commission.

Another commission recommendation, enacted last year, provides an Office of Administration, designed to assist the next and succeeding governors in implementing reorganization.

"Missouri has before it a challenging opportunity and a rare one," the governor said.

"It is a unique moment when a basic improvement of state government has so much going for it. The necessary study and planning has been done. The tools to implement it have been provided.

"What is needed now is widespread understanding and support of the amendment.

"We must upgrade the state government's ability not only to meet the problems of today, but also to meet the challenges of tomorrow."

The Miner Fire Department was called to the scene at 11:15 p.m. but was unable to save the house. Fireman say the cause of the blaze is undetermined. A trash pile burning behind the house since Thursday, may be responsible for the fire, they said.

Demos Propose Cradle To Grave Insurance

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A Democratic Party platform plank promising every American cradle-to-grave comprehensive health insurance was proposed today by Sen. Edward M. Ke nnedy, D-Mass., and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, DArk.

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Kennedy, chairman of the Senate health subcommittee, reported broad agreement on services and coverage under a plan that Congress may be asked to consider next year. They made their joint presentation to a platform committee panel conducting the latest in a series of open regional hearings.

The issue of paying for health insurance was not mentioned in the statement of agreement. Kennedy has proposed direct government financing through Social Security and general taxes, but Mills indicated he favors retaining existing health insurance carriers and requiring some employer-employe premium payments.

Even with this major element unresolved, the Mills-Kennedy proposal marked a step toward an agreed Democratic alternative to President Nixon's relatively limited plan requiring employers to offer private health insurance and pay most of the premium.

Moreover, although neither senator may have intended it, the Mills-Kennedy collaboration inevitably took on overtones of presidential politics. Mills, a self-described long-shot contender for the Democratic nomination, is among the Southerners working to prevent a first-ballot convention choice of Sen. George S. McGovern.

Mills recently said he would consider a vice presidential nomination, but only if Kennedy were the presidential candidate. Meanwhile, there has been persistent speculation that Kennedy might be persuaded to accept the second spot on a McGovern ticket.

Kennedy, while not absolutely closing the door on a possible vice presidential race, has insisted he does not intend to run for either post this year and does not now see any likelihood of circumstances that could change his mind.

"We do not propose that the federal government own or manage the American health system," Mills and Kennedy said.

Mickelson Heads Study Of No-Fault Insurance Plans

Here are Godfrey's other appointments to committees which will report to the 1973 legislature:

COLLEGE FOOTBALL
U.S.A. 1869-1971

For every football fan, and every friend of one! The National Football Foundation and the Football Hall of Fame have just issued their first official book. It covers the game in a very enjoyable manner from its first nostalgic beginnings to the classic clashes of today.

Ten years in the making, the book has 560 pages, with 640 photos. Thumbing though its pages you will smile: "I remember him" or "I never knew that!"

It is three books in one. Part I is full of facts and anecdotes about the first 100 years of football. Part II has short biographies of every player (290 of them) and coaches (65) who have been elected to the Football Hall of Fame. Part III has the all-time records of 150 major colleges. Every All-America team since 1889. Conference standings since 1876. Bowl game results from 1902-1972.

There are many more facts and figures. How the huddle developed, how the rules changed. Famous rivalries, great upsets and much more is there. Plus pictures, pictures, pictures.

An intimate part of our folklore, a vast body of fact and legend has accumulated about the game. Why did Rockne say that "all football comes from Stagg"? What about Pop Warner? Why was Frank Leahy called "The Master"? What about Bud Wilkinson?

The book is a treasure of information, a pleasure to read. Who has the best win percentage? Who has the most wins? The list is endless. The book is a masterpiece. (For further information send a card to: Sports Galore, 86 Riverside Drive, New York, N.Y. 10024)

We have noticed in some of the papers where the County Clerks have given out an issue which notified the candidates for County Offices how much money they could spend in the campaign, for both the Primary and General Election. The legislature at the last session passed a law setting expenditures for electioneering to cover everything, announcements, cards, bumper stickers, placards, radio and television advertising as well as newspaper advertising, not to exceed $25.00 for each 100 votes that were cast for President in 1968. In Scott County there were 18,095 votes cast for President which means that the maximum that can be spent by any candidate for County Office is $4,523.75, and as a warning, we would recommend that each candidate keep very accurate account of the amount of money that he spends for all purposes, because we don't know if, as the Republicans seem to think, that they are going to capture all the state offices and lot of the county offices in the State of Missouri, if they do the candidates that win in the Democratic Primary and General Election, will have to stand a visit from an inspector and they will have to have the amount of money that they spent itemized, so you can take this or leave it, but that is the way it is.

One of the secrets to being a successful guest at a party is being a good listener. Too many people break into a conversation just to get their "two cents" in, which is both discourteous and annoying.

SOUTHWESTERN
DROUGHT

Summers were usually sunny and dry in the Middle Atlantic and New England states during the mid-1960s. It was perfect beach-going weather. Unfortunately, it was typical drought weather, too. For more than four years, the northeastern portion of the United States was so short of rainfall that restrictions on water consumption were imposed in a number of areas.

The East has since returned to its accustomed condition of ample rainfall. But now the Southwest, perennially short of precipitation, is in the grip of a drought of Dust Bowl proportions. "From Southern and Central California through Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico, it has sucked the earth dry," Jim Stingley reported in the Los Angeles Times (May 28, 1972). "In major portions of those states, precipitation has not been recorded in nearly five months. In those areas, it is the driest such period in history."

Farmers in the stricken areas hope for relief in July. That is the month when summer storms from the Gulf of Mexico ordinarily deposit stubstantial rain on portions of Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, and Utah. It is possible, though, that deliverance is some years distant. History shows that severe droughts in the Far West occur roughly once every 20 years. The last previous one began in 1950 and reached its peak -- or nadir – in 1953. Two decades earlier, there was the Dust Bowl. Yet another classic period of western drought occurred in the last 1880s and early 1890s and gave impetus to the political movement known as populism. Neo-populism is on the march again this year, but any connection between it and the parched earth of the Southwest is purely coincidental.

NOTHING EQUAL TO
U. S. LEISURE BOOM

A feature in the U. S. News & World Report gives some interesting facts about the "Leisure Boom," and if there has been a recession it is surely not discernible in these facts.

People are spending about $105 billion on leisure in 1972. Leisure spending exceeds the nation's national defense costs. It outstrips spending for new homes and total corporate profits of all American businesses. Leisure spending is larger than the aggregate income of U. S. farmers. In spite of complaints over the inability to keep up with taxes and inflation, a great many people have more free time.

A really astounding part of the leisure boom study is that dealing with where and how leisure time money is spent. Some $40 billion will go this year for vacation pleasure travel. Another $7.5 billion will go for travel abroad in 1972. Recreation - sports equipment and activities will take another $50 billion. Another $5.5 billion will be spent for vacation land and lots. Another $2 billion will go for second homes -- retreats to escape from the pressures of city life. A further breakdown of these leisure billions almost seems to indicate a nation trying to get away from itself. There are some four million camping vehicles ranging from $300 trailers to $25,000 self-propelled "motor homes." Where the roads end, snowmobiles, dune buggies, minibikes and other recreational vehicles take over. Other recreation outlets are skiing, golf, tennis, cycling, etc. Eleven million people in 1971 spent $45 million on water skis alone.

So you can see why the estimated 75 per cent of the U. S. population that is involved in some sort of outdoor recreation has meant an astronomical increase in traffic for national parks and other recreational areas. U. S. News says, "... the National Park Service expects a record 212 million visitors to its areas this year. The Army's Corps of Engineers, responsible for 8.5 million acres of land and water, anticipates more than 300 million visitors to its preserves."

The figures on the leisure boom are as endless as they are stunning in size. For instance, gained from an estimate of the American Automobile Association, there will be $40 billion spent on domestic pleasure travels. Motorists will drive in excess of 300 billion miles -- merely getting to and from vacation areas.

While we may search for comparisons of the U. S. leisure boom around the world, nothing like it in America has ever happened in history. And it has happened notwithstanding recessions, high taxes, inflation, unemployment and all the other contradictory elements we see around us.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The duller your job is and the lower your educational achievement is, research has disclosed, the more likely you are to indulge in high-risk hobbies and sports, such as skydiving and car racing. People who do this are seeking the status and recognition they don't get from their regular work.

Living in a temperate climate helps cut down on the number of heart attacks. Their incidence is higher during temperature extremes of either heat or cold. They reach a peak during the winter in New York and Chicago, during the summer in Dallas and New Orleans.

For fat people whose very lives are threatened by their overweight—100 pounds or more—there is available an operation of last resort called a gastric bypass. It closes off 90 per cent of the stomach so that only 10 per cent receives food. The patient loses weight because it makes him uncomfortable to eat too much.

Intimate: There is a fad in some feminine circles for underclothing imprinted with sexy messages. Mark Gindi of Exotique Lingerie, a leading designer in this new art field, says the line most women prefer on their lingerie is, "Yearn, Baby, Yearn." The least popular? "Kilroy was here."

Rare and privileged: If you've never had a dental cavity, you're one out of 500. About that many go through life without getting any holes in their teeth at all.

AGAIN, SCHOOL BUSING

The will of the majority, it seems, continues to be ignored. The Administration in Washington has professed sympathy and promised to set in concert with that will on the issue of school busing. Candidates in state primaries who were on record against school busing for the sake of racial balance scored lop-sided majorities. Referendum votes elsewhere showed the majority of the electorate against busing.

Nashville, Tenn., school children will be bused across the city regardless of the expressed wishes of the people. The U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled for busing and the decision involves 48,000 children. The decision means they will not be able to attend school in their own neighborhoods. They will be exposed to the dangers of traffic accidents on the trips to and from school. They will find themselves in strange circumstances. They will not be getting better educations. They actually will not be helping race relations but they will be satisfying the mandate of the court.

Some liberal candidates for high office are complaining that office-holders have not been responsive to the needs of the people. At the same time they are espousing the cause of school busing. These candidates ought to read the public opinion polls to find out how the majority of the people actually feel about the issue of busing. The circuit courts ought to read again the Supreme Court decisions on school integration. These lower courts of appeals would find that mandatory school buisng for the sake of racial balance was not the intent of the Supreme Court. Meanwhile, the people ought to make their voices heard even in stronger tones. HLH.

WASHINGTON — The Secret Service, eager to protect its political charges from assassination, is keeping a suspicious eye on a host of celebrities.

One and all, they are known for shooting off their mouths at politicians. It's unlikely any of them would use a gun.

We have already reported that such unlikely assassins as comedians Groucho Marx and Tony Randall are on the Secret Service's suspicious list.

Now we've learned that the computerized file of 180,000 potential assassins also includes filmdom's "Godfather," Marlon Brando; television's "Arnie," "Hershel Bernardi; actor-producer Carl Reiner; conservative news commentator Paul Harvey; comedian Dick Gregory; folk singer Joan Baez; Mexican-American activist Cesar Chavez; clergyman Rev. James Groppi; and Quaker activist Lawrence Scott.

By contrast, George Wallace's accused assailant, Arthur Bremer, was nowhere mentioned in the Secret Service's vast files.

Brando aroused Secret Service suspicions because of his sympathy for the Black Panthers. "Subject attended 4-13-68 funeral of slain BPP (Black Panther Party) member," reports the Secret Service darkly. "Has made statements sympathetic to black militant causes."

As for Gregory, the Secret Service acknowledges: "Subject often speaks critically of the protectees and Administration but refrains from making threatening statements."

One of the least likely men in America to shoot a president or seek to overthrow the government is Paul Harvey, the voice of the status quo. Yet the Secret Service considers him a menace to the President because he once climbed over a security fence to get a story.

Father Groppi is accused in the Secret Service files of "demonstrating against welfare cuts" and "demonstrating in front of building where VP was speaking."

The roster of potential presidential assassins, it seems, is beginning to read like who's Who in America.

The story can now be told how James Dore, a Brooklyn boy who made good, happened to be hired as a $17,400-a-year investigator for the Federal Maritime Commission.

Whatever Dore's talents as an investigator may be, his chief qualification was the friendship of Rep. John Rooney, D-N.Y.

The irascible Rooney passes on the Federal Maritime Commission's budget and he expects the commissioners to grovel before him.

A few years back, then-Maritime Chairman John Harllee appeared before Rooney's House Appropriations Subcommittee to beg for funds. Harllee was flanked by budget experts prepared to justify every dollar in the budget.

But the old curmudgeon showed little interest in how many millions the Federal Maritime Commission planned to spend. What he was concerned about was the failure of his friend, Jim Dore, to land a job as an investigator.

If Dore wasn't hired, indicated Rooney, a lot of other people would be out of jobs, too. For he would cut the commission's budget, or perhaps hold up the whole amount until Dore got his job.

Rooney's threat was vivid enough that those in attendance remember it clearly. We contacted Harllee, now retired, to ask about his recollections.

When we pressed him, he recounted the incident: "Rooney had absolute power. He requested me to hire the guy in a very strong, forceful manner, in no uncertain terms. There was every indication that he would cut the budget, or hold it up if we did not comply. In the interest of the other employees, I hired the guy.

"And I'll tell you," Harllee added with a somber little chuckle, "Rooney didn't cut the budget as much that year as usual."

The details of Rooney's pressure tactics, of course, were carefully censored from the record of his subcommittee by the crafty chairman.

Footnote: Dore denies any knowledge of Rooney's pressure. "I happened to be looking for a job and he's an old family friend for years," said Dore. Rooney didn't return our calls.

Message to Guerrillas: skyjacked pilots now being probed

WASHINGTON — Some of that elite working-class corps, namely the $50,000 - to $75,000 a-year- commercial jet pilots, now unusually agitated by skyjackers, have developed a strange camaraderie with their aerial abductors during kidnapped flight.

And federal agents now want to know why.

A crew member in that Western Airlines cockpit, for example, obliged his captor, Willie Holder, in flight by transmitting personal messages to Algiers. Holder,who wasn't armed at all, had a rendezvous with top American Black Panther street guerrilla warfare chiefs. The hijacker wanted to be met by a contingent of the high command of the dissident, cop-killing, explosive-laden Afro-American Liberation Army, which is headed by Eldridge Cleaver and operates globally out of its Algerian headquarters.

When Cleaver split off from the Oakland-based Black Panther Party, he took with him, and controlled, the organizations' International Section. But he has passed this on to Felix "Pete" O'Neal, a former Kansas City, Mo., Panther chapter leader. Cleaver long has needed money for a return to the U.S. to whip up street fighting, indiscriminate killing of patrolmen, black and white, and to stir a Latin American brand of blood and terror. And that puts it mildly. Just examine Cleaver's publications "Right On" and "Babylon" for evidence that the above analysis of Cleaver strategy is understatement, indeed.

This takes time and money. So Cleaver handed O'Neal the International Section and plans to spend his time developing and implementing his tactics for the razing of American's Babylons -- mostly such big cities as New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Cleveland, et al.

He's been rejected even by his former California comrades and has but a small band of some 250 hard-core thugs here in the states. But he believes money could remedy his failure to whip up a larger force.

So, back to the cockpit of the Western Airlines plane flying the skyjacker and his girl to Algeria. The "pirate" Willie Holder told the flight crew to dispatch his message to the Cleaver-O'Neal headquarters. The message was radioed to Algiers. Why?

They were sky high. There were only the crew and the couple. The young kidnappers weren't about to blow themselves into the ocean now that they had successfully dragooned the plane empty of passengers.

Later one of the pilots spoke of Holder in flattering terms. This was after Holder was met by O'Neal and Cleaver, In effect, this crew action appears to put that honorable stamp of political refugees on the couple. Nor is this the first time such apparent admiration has been expressed.

This had irked some labor officials and Federal investigators including those Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and FBI men responsible for counteracting aerial piracy.

Other labor people are irritated by the pilots' elitism. No one expects the flight deck men to go dashing off into the bright blue yonder to wrestle down armed abductors. But neither do members of other unions believe the pilots have done anything more than fly their craft home from sanctuary airports.

Especially angered are the Transport Workers Union (TWU) (AFL—CIO) national officials led by Marty Guinan, a mild-styled chap but a tough Irish fighter when he takes off. What's riled the TWU is the FAA's announcement of a proposed rule-making (72-7) session which will consider making it mandatory for all flight decks to be bullet and bomb proff and to be locked in. Thus when a hijacker releases passengers, the pilots and navigators can slip out the forward emergency door leaving the plane earth-locked. But, says the TWU, this would also leave the stewards and stewardesses, of which the TWU has 20,000 as hostages under the gun or knife or grenade.

This proposed rule 72-7 has been supported by the Air Line Pilots Assn. (APLA) (AFL-CIO), which has some 15,000 cabin attendants of its own. So Guinan and colleagues have demanded that ALPA reject and fight the rule. But no word yet from the pilots who called on the rest of the AFL-CIO to back up their boycott plan. The powerful International Assn. of Machinists (AFL-CIO) of which airport maintenance personnel are members, also is giving the pilots a long cool stare.

There is a pervading feeling in many circles that the pilots though they sit it out, could do more. They did not have to transmit the message of Holder who reportedly told Pete O'Neal that some of the $500,000 extorted from his Western Airlines hijacking was to be spent on a fight against "Zionism" and for the Arabs and "Palestinians."

And why have there been such long stretches of silence from the pilots amid scores of hijacking? And why would they back the proposed safety rule which would put hostesses in skyjackers' hands? And why have they not fraternized and consulted with their lesser paid and less glamorous airport and in-flight co-workers?

That's the sentiment.

U.S. Deactivates Last Infantry Unit

SAIGON (AP) — The United States today deactivated its last remaining infantry brigade in South Vietnam, officially ending its ground combat role but continuing the commitment of a 100,000-man air and naval force to the war.

U. S. air and naval forces again heavily bombarded North Vietnam, but stayed below the 20th parallel 70 miles south of Hanoi to avoid any incidents during the visit of Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny to the North Vietnamese capital.

The U. S. Command reported that Air Force, Navy and Marine fighter-bombers carried out more than 320 air strikes against North Vietnam Friday. More than 350 strikes were flown over the North the previous day.

The major raids Friday included attacks on the Dong Phong Thuong railroad bypass bridge nine miles northeast of Thanh Hoa near the 20th parallel, 200 miles north of the demilitarized zone, and renewed strikes on MIG air bases at Bai Thuong, Khe Phat and Quan Lang. Navy and Air Force pilots reported knocking out the bridge and 30 railroad boxcars and setting off one large fuel fire. Runways and taxiways at the three MIG airfields were reported cratered in 15 different places.

The Command announced the phaseout from Vietnam of the 3rd Brigade, 1st Air Cavalry Division, the last full infantry brigade remaining in the war zone.

The Command said the move would cut American strength in Vietnam by 2,590 troops.

The disclosure that the brigade was being deactivated came less than 24 hours after the Command announced the start of the pullout of the only other remaining brigade, the 196th at Da Nang. Sources disclosed earlier that seven Air Force and Marine fighter- bomber squadrons at the Da Nag base had begun shifting their operations to three bases in Thailand.

One battalion of the 3rd Brigade and some helicopter units reportedly will remain behind for the present time as a ready reaction force operating under a regional command and not as part of the brigade. This will mean roughly 500 to 700 frontline infantrymen remaining in the entire southern half of South Vietnam.

Wallace Operation Sunday

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace will undergo major surgery here Sunday to remove a bullet from his spinal canal and, if all goes well, he still is expected to attend the Democratic National Convention.

"We fully expect that with a good recovery he will be in Miami," Billy Joe Camp, the governor's press secretary, said at a news conference Friday.

Wallace has been hospitalized here since May 15 when he was shot at Laurel, Md., as he campaigned for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Surgeons removed one bullet from Wallace's left side the day he was shot.

The remaining bullet, which is lodged in his spinal canal, paralyzed his legs. Doctors say they will not know if the spinal cord is cut or damaged until they operate.

More Agencies Put Under Merit System

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Two more big state patronage agencies have been put under the merit system by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, effective July 1. Both have come under legislative fire in recent years.

They are the Division of Budget and Comptroller of the Division of Planning and Construction. He said continuity of employment and professional expertise is needed in these agencies because of the complexity of their work.

The executive order issued Friday exempted John C. Vaughn, comptroller and budget director, Purchasing Agent Robert L. Norris, and John D. Paulus, director of planning and construction.

Other employes and any new employes in the new fiscal year will have to take merit examinations as soon as the personnel advisory board sets up tests and job qualifications.

The governor said the legislature already has approved the principle of extending the merit system to such housekeeping agencies when it passed last year a bill to create a commissioner of administration under the governor's office to handle day-to-day affairs effective next January.

Labor Council Endorses State Congressmen

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Members of the state Labor Council, AFL-CIO, were to meet today to ratify the preliminary endorsement they gave Friday toall incumbent Missouri congressmen.

The council made no endorsements intthe races for governor or lieutenant governor.

About 25 members of the council from all parts of Missouri endorsed state Rep. Charles Broomfield, D-Kansas City, in the 6th Congressional District where Rep. William R. Hull, D-Weston is retiring. They left the 7th District of southwest Missouri without endorsement. Rep. Durward Hall, RSpringfield, is not seeking reelection in that district.

The council turned down recommendations of the Greater Kansas City Labor Council, which had endorsed Democrat Edward Dowd of St. Louis and Republican Christopher "Kit" Bond for the governor's race.

The state council also failed to follow Kansas City's recommendations to endorse state Rep. Jack J. Schramm, D-University City, for lieutenant governor.

The state council endorsed Democratic Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick for reelection. The members chose state Rep. E. J. "Lucky" Cantrell, D-Overland, as their candidate for state treasurer. They made no endorsement in the race for attorney general.

VA Hospital Dedicated At Columbia

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The nation's 167th Veterans Administration hospital was dedicated here today and President Nixon sent a message reaffirming his support for an independent Veterans Administration health care system.

The President's message was significant, according to Donald E. Johnson, Nixon's administrator of veteran affairs, because there is growing sentiment in Congress to incorporate the VA hospitals in a national hospital system.

With the numerous proposals for national health insurance due to be discussed during the next Congress, Johnson said in a press conference, there will be a "realignment of the nation's health delivery system" soon. And many of these plans, Johnson said, do not take the VA hospitals into account.

More than 1,000 people attended the dedication ceremonies on the new hospital's grounds. Among them were Yukio Satoh, the second secretary of the Japanese Embassy in Washington, and White House representatives Peter Millspaugh, deputy special assistant to the President, and John F. Evans, assistant director of the President's Domestic Council. Also in attendance were several members of Congress, state legislators, Universityof Missouri officials, two Congressional Medal of Honor winners, several representatives of veterans organizations and the public.

Behind the special guests on the platform stood the squat, beige, $15 million hospital building, six stories high, which when fully operational will have 460 beds. The hospital took more than four years to build and was officially opened April 1.

In his speech, Johnson said the newest hospital was more evidence that the American people have accepted "fully and freely the charge and the challenge which Abraham Lincoln gave them when he told them 'to care for him who shall have borne the battle.'"

The VA hospital system, Johnson said, will have a budget of almost $2.75 billion during the next fiscal year. This, he went on, "is an increase of more than $1 billion in just three years since President Nixon appointed me as his administrator of veterans affairs."

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Kirk Ludwig

Ludwig-Gramling

KENNETT — The marriage of Teresa Ann Gramling and Timothy Kirk Ludwig was solemnized last Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at First Baptist Church. The Rev. Sam Stewart of Paragould, Ark., performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm O. Gramling, 205 Homecrest Blvd., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roy Ludwig of Cape Girardeau.

The altar of the church was decorated with two pedestals of white mums, blue poms, babies breath and ivy. A satin prayer pillow made by the bride was placed in front of the candle arch.

Charles P. McGinty, Jr., of Cape Girardeau, soloist, accompanied himself on the guitar. A Regina - 1885 muxic box, restored by the groom's father, played the Lohengrin Wedding March as the bride came down the aisle.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of organza with scalloped - cotton Guipure Venise lace outlining the neckline and forming a redingote effect in the skirt that swept to a Venise edged watteau chapel train.

Her elbow-length, white, double-layered tulle veil was edged with white Chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses with blue babys breath and white satin streamers.

Deranna Lee Gramlin of Kennett, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Heather Rosemary Wilkey of Kennett and Mrs. Thomas Russell of Little Rock, Ark. The junior bridesmaid was Julie Elizabeth Gramling of Kennett, sister of the bride.

The attendants wore blue and white floral gowns with long flowing skirts. They were of silk organza over deep blue taffeta with an empire waist, blue organza sashes, puffed sleeves and scooped rounded necklines.

The maid of honor carried an all white mum with blue and white streamers. The bridesmaids each carried a white mum tipped in blue with blue streamers. Their hair was pulled from the face to a low crown position and held with a tiny bow and two blue daisies.

Thomas Arthur Ludwig of Columbia, cousin of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Leigh Norman Brasington of Memphis, Tenn., Thomas Sylvester Russell of Little Rock, Ark., and Donald Beattie of Jackson. Ushers were Gaylon Rogers of Kennett and Beattie. Tim Gramling, brother of the bride, was the candlelighter.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church. The bride's table was covered with lace and set with two crystal candelabras and crystal mint and nut dishes.

The white three-tiered wedding cake was topped with an arrangement of blue daisies. The serving table was decorated with a centerpiece of white daisies, blue poms and babys breath.

Serving were Mrs. Melvin Simpson and Sally Goettleman, both of St. Louis, and Patricia Diane Pelts of Kennett.

The couple left for a back-packing and camping tour through Missouri, Iowa and the Rockie Mountains. They will live in Sikeston after July 13 where Ludwig will be on the news staff of The Daily Standard as the wire news editor. He is also a professional photographer. Ludwig graduated from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau in May.

Mrs. Ludwig will continue her education at SeMo State where she will be in her senior year working toward a bachelor of science degree in education with a major in art.

Ann Landers

Litter And Not Discarded Film Causes Animals' Death

Dear Ann Landers: Thirty years ago the San Francisco Society For The Prevention of Cruelty To Animals launched a campaign to trade guns for camers. The society gave a camera to every child who turned in a weapon. Most weapons were air rifles or .22 caliber rifles. Large numbers were received and taken out of circulation. The campaign was considered a big success.

The idea, of course, was to protect small animals, birds and an occasional human who fell victim to the dubious skill of a young marksman. A camera, it was believed, would substitute a constructive pastime for one that often led to suffering.

Times have changed. Today, thanks to modern science, a careless photographer armed with nothing but a camera can visit death on a deer, fish, or his own dog. The harm is done by poisonous chemicals in the peeled -off film of the finished print. Unaware of this, most photographers discard the film wherever they happen to take the picture. A committee of concerned citizens interested in saving wildlife learned that nearly 400 hoofed animals and thousands of fish die every year in our national parks -- poisoned by careless photographers.

The solution is simple. Those who use an instant camera should carry a litter bag or put the discarded film in their pockets and dispose of it safely on return. - Oakland Reader

Dear Oak: I am printing your letter to educate my readers - but not in the way that you think. The lesson here is DON'T BELIEVE EVERYTHING you hear or read.

The information contained in your letter is completely false. Both the National Park Service and the U.S. Forest Service are cooperating with Polaroid to correct a completely cockeyed news story which has been circulating all over the country. The story was published in many reputable newspapers and wildlife magazines put out by highly respectable organizations such as the Sierra Club.

Polaroid has conducted extensive tests on the discarded film material and all results show that the negative tabs do not contain hazardous substances.

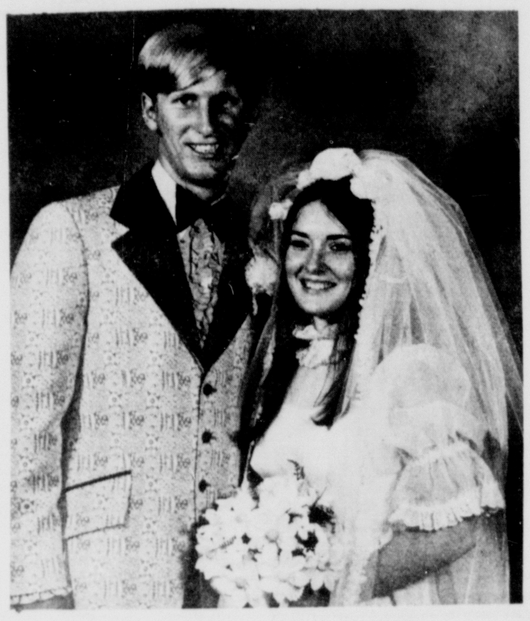
The Polaroid Company investigated many animal deaths which allegedly resulted from poisoning by the discarded film. It was determined that these animals died from physical blockage of the digestive tract, a result of eating paper cups, candy wrappers, and newspapers. They were not poisoned by discarded film. To encourage camera owners to dispose of discard material properly, Polaroid has made a technical change in the foil wrap around the pack. It zips open and become a litter bag.

So the problem isn't cameras or candy wrappers. It's the human slob who throws his trash around. I'd like to see the SPCA go back to substituting camersas for guns. It's a great idea.

Dear Ann Landers: From time to time you print letters from compulsive talkers -- folks who hang on to the floor by connecting every sentence to the next with "and... a...." This can be frustrating for people who have to listen. Please tell me what to do about my aunt who comes to visit every August. She talks incessantly because she is hard of hearing. I do love her, Ann, but I swear she doesn't hear one-eighth of what is said. Don't suggest a hearing aid. She had a drawer full. She says they make her nervous. What should I do? --Uppa Crick

Dear Uppa: Nod periodically. Smile. Think about something else.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "B ugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to this newspaper.



Mr. and Mrs. James E. Harper

Harper-Glastetter

NEW HAMBURG — The marriage of Miss Judith Marie Glastetter and James E. Harper was celebrated at St. Lawrence Catholic Church in New Hamburg the afternoon of May 20. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Phillip Bucker. Organist was Miss Karen Brucker and soloist was Mrs. Wallace Alden.

She carried a cascade bouquet of mint, maize and orchid daisies.

Miss Nancy Glastetter, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. Matron of honor was Mrs. Steve Lambert, cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Gail Harper, sister of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid, both from Benton.

They wore mint, maize, and orchid formal dacron organza gowns with standup collars and short puffed sleeves trimmed in lace and satin ribbons. Triple-layered organza bows with streamers of bows adorned their hair and they carried bouquets of daisies.

Cotton Crop To Be Best In Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government and trade officials say U.S. cotton exports can pick up substantially if the 1972 crop materializes as indications are it will.

Foreign buyers are looking favorably at U.S. cotton, mainly because of prospects now for the biggest crop in years, the Agriculture Department says. Growers have plated about 13.5 million acres for 1972, according to surveys, a 10 per cent boost from 1971.

Barring severe setbacks, this year's crop could total around 12 million bales, the most since 1965. For some years now, cotton output has not kept pace with domestic and export demand, forcing re serves to 20year low levels

Now, says the department, foreign buyers are watching the 1972 crop closely and are indicating they will be into the U.S. market heavily later on.

The rosier outlook was included in reports by two trade teams which recently visited foreign importers in Europe and Asia.

Already, according to preliminary reports filed by the two groups, foreign buyers have bought U.S. cotton for delivery during the 1972-73 season.

Although improving somewhat the past two years, U.S. cotton exports have been far below the high marks of the past 15 years—nearly 7.6 million bales in 1956, for example, and as much as 4.6 million in 1966. Last year about 3.25 million bales were exported.

A larger crop would help build up reserves and enable U.S. cotton to compete on the world market, the reports indicated. However, many other problems persist, the department said.

"Steps also must be taken to bring U.S. shipping costs in line with costs for shipping cotton from other producing countries, and to reduce or eliminate losses due to work stoppages at the docks," officials said.

"These higher costs affect returns to producers," they said.

To Clamp Down On Bad Eggs

JEFFERSON CITY — On July 1 the Egg Products Inspection Act will give state and federal egg inspectors the power to clamp down on "restricted egg" -- checks, dirties, leakers, incubator rejects, inedibles and loss eggs, reports State Commissioner of Agriculture Dexter Davis.

All egg processing plants came under the new mandatory egg products inspection program on July 1, 1971. Commissioner Davis calls attention to the fact that shell eggs, as well as processed egg products, fall under the regulations of this federal law.

Restricted eggs, except checks and dirties, must be destroyed or denatured at the point of segregation or grading of the eggs so that they will not get into consumer food channels.

All plants grading shell eggs -- for restaurants, retail stores, institutions or food manufacturers; all hatcheries; and all producer-packers with more than 3,000 hens who pack for the ultimate consumer (households, retail stores, bakeries, institutions, restaurants, etc.) must register before July 1, 1972, according to Commissioner Davis and Merle Scrogin, director of Graded Egg Division, Missouri Department of Agriculture.

State and federal inspectors will checkplants grading eggs, hatcheries and egg packers at least every three months to see that they comply with the law. Other businesses that transport, ship or receive eggs may also be checked periodically.

Director Scrogin, his office force and crops of state egg inspectors attended a Shell Egg Surveilance Conference at St. Louis on May 24, conducted by the USDA Consumer and Marketing Service (C&MS) to study all aspects relative to enforcing the egg products inspection program.

Registration forms were mailed to all known packers shortly after April 1 this year. Those not receiving forms may obtain them from any C&MS poultry grading office or from:

Stoneville 213 "Leading" Brand

HAYTI -- Cotton farmers in Scott County planted 86 per cent of their crop in the Stoneville 213 variety. The second leading variety planted was Auburn M accounting for five per cent of the planted acreage.

These figures were revealed by a variety survey which is conducted annually by the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, Cotton Division at Hayti.

Leading variety in the state is Stoneville 213 which made up up 64 per cent of the total acreage. Deltapine 16 ranked second with 19 per cent. Rex 66 made up five per cent and other varieties the remainder. Last season Scott County produced 13,204 bales.

THIS WINDMILL on Mrs. Arnold Roth's farm, seven miles northeast of Sikeston, once provided water for farm livestock. Today weeds and vines have engulfed the pumps leaving only a rusted marker.

Weed Control Methods Outlined For Soybeans

By THOMAS A. BROWN, JR.
Area Agronomy Specialist

BLOOMFIELD — Weeds are beginning to be a problem in early- planted soybeans, and farmers are wondering what herbicide to use as a post emergence weed control treatment.

Dinoseb, commonly known as Dinitro, can be used as a very early post emergence treatment when weeds make an appearance shortly after planting. A rate of two to three pounds of active ingredient per acre should be applied from the "cracking stage" until the appearance of the first true leaves. This is the first pair of leaves that appears on the plan after the cotyledons or "seed leaves".

Fair to good control is attained for a variety of weeds including barnyard grass, carpetweed, coffeeweed, cocklebur, crabgrass, jimson-weed lambsquarter, morning glory, pigsweed, purslane, ragweed, smartweed, spurge, prickly sida and velvetweed.

The above rate of application may be too low for dependable control of weeds not yet emerged. Crop injury may be expected if the application is made when the temperature exceeds 85 degrees F. and results are less effective if application is made when the temperature is below 70 degrees F. As this indicates, the time interval for the effective use of dinoseb is short.

If the emergence of soybean seedlings is not uniform, varying degrees of injury may result.

In addition to the early post emergence treatment outlined above, Dinoseb is also recommended for use as a post emergence directed spray after the beans are five inches tall. To avoid crop injury, the spray must not be applied higher than one- half the height of the soybean plant. Follow label instructions carefully in applying this treatment. This treatment may be used up to the time beans begin to bloom.

2,4-DB is recommended as a post emergence weed control chemical when cocklebur, morning glory, or both will likely reduce soybean yields. This treatment should be considered as a "salvage operation." The amine formulation of 2,4-DB should be applied as a directed spray at the rate of .2 pound of acid equivalent per acre when the first buds start to form, but not after mid- bloom. This chemical has label clearance for use when soybean plants are eight to 12 inches tall.

Treatment at this earlier stage will facilitate the use of this chemical when weeds are younger which should improve the results obtained from its use. It will also allow the treatment to be made sufficiently early that the chemical can be directed in such a manner as to allow good coverage of the weeds without necessitating that the chemical be applied "over the top" of the soybean plants. This, in turn, should result in less damage to the crop.

Best results are obtained when weeds are less than three inches tall. Weeds should be adequately covered for best results; however, the spray should be directed to contact the soybean plants no higher than four inches above the soil surface. When used as suggested, this chemical can be expected to distort soybean plants.

If the application rate and timing of treatments are carefully observed, plants can usually be expected to recover without serious permanent injury. Serious permanent injury may result if applied to soybean plants showing symptoms of diseases or if the plants are under drought stress. Beans should not be harvested within 60 days of application.

Plant-Soil Analysis In Order On Many Farms

MARBLE HILL — Time is rapidly approaching for farmers to evaluate their management practices and fertility practices applied this spring. The most appropriate method of determining the success of a management practice is the measure of the yield increase. However, some practices can be readily observed over a short run. Weed control practices, for example, are readily observable.

Some fertility practices may be identified early in the spring whereas other practices may be more difficult to recognize. Where deficiencies exist a slight increase in fertility amendment is readily identifiable.

However, one limiting factor may hide an overapplication of another material. A farmer may have a potash deficiency and be applying too much nitrogen. The potash deficiency will prevent the plant from achieving the yield that the nitrogen could induce.

Plant analysis has become a method whereby we can determine the cost vs. returns situation on fertility. In the above case, the farmer could have spent his additional money for potash rather than nitrogen and increased his yield considerably. The cost analysis on higher rates of fertilizer indicates that most farmers in Missouri are not properly supplying the adequate levels of nitrogen, phosphorous and potash.

At the same time deficiencies have a tendency to occur within the gamut of the trace elements. While doing plant and soil analysis, weak points in the fertilizer program may be readily identifiable, as well as monitoring the trace element situation.

Plant and soil analysis is available through University of Missouri Extension Centers.

Tests on Missouri farms in recent years indicate that if you are a crop producer the probabilities are high that you will find some adjustment in fertilizer use is in order. The main reason for this is that fertilizer use over the past seasons and crop yields harvested have altered the fertility factor.

Sampling for plant and soil analysis is not difficult and does not take a large amount of time. Complete instructions are given in MU Guide 9131, "Sampling Plant Tissue and Soil for Analysis", which is available at any University of Missouri Extension Center.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz has decided to re-establish an Industry Advisory Committee on Foot-and-Mouth Disease.

"The United States must be on constant guard to prevent the unauthorized movement across its boundaries of animals, and other products such as fresh meat, ship's garbage, animal byproducts, hay and straw which may carry the virus of foot-and-mouth disease," Butz said.

Johnson Grass Control Tests Under Way

By PHILLIP G. STRYKER
Area Agronomy Specialist

MARBLE HILL — Johnson grass is a major problem to farmers in creek bottoms and river bottoms in Southeast Missouri. In some cases it has limited or dominated the cropping pattern chosen by farmers.

There are many methods being attempted to control Johnson grass and still produce a respectable yielding row crop. One example is the Johnson grass control research and demonstratiion plot two miles west of Interstate 55 on Highway 72.

This field is on the R. B. Potashnick farm and is heavily infested with both rhyzome and seedling Johnson grass. George Schafer was looking for a method to continue row crop production without having to fallow the soil for one full season.

There are 30 different herbicide treatments in this test. Several of these are showing promising results for the control of Johnson grass. Farmers who have Johnson grass problems should observe this demonstration area.

Included in many of these treatments is a seed protectant which allows a higher rate of a material to be used without damaging the germination of the seed.

Broiler Chicks Are Up 6% Over Previous Year

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — For the week ended June 3, a total of 555,000 chicks were placed for broilers in Missouri — six per cent more than for a similar period last year and 12 per cent more than the previous week.

The Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said of the chicks placed, 286,000 were received from other states, while Missouri hatcheries shipped 43,000 to other states.

Missouri hatcheries set a total of 355,000 eggs for broilers during the week ending June third.

Eggs set were six per cent more than for a similar week last year, but down eight per cent from the previous week.

Weed Control Tour Set At Delta Center

PORTAGEVILLE — A farmer tour of weed control research will be held at 9 a.m. June 30 at the University of Missouri Delta Center farm six miles east of Portageville, according to Joe H. Scott, state agronomy specialist.

Weed control methods in cotton and soybeans will be pointed out and discussed by Dr. Harold Kerr and Curt Royster, weed control researchers at the Delta Center.

Comparison of postemergence treatments for most effective weed control in cotton and soybeans will be observed during the tour.

A pesticide combination study consisting of fungicides, insecticides and herbicides is also included in the tour, which will be completed by noon.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Favorable planting weather in the Corn Belt and a big push to windup cotton planting in some areas of the South helped boost the nation's farm employment in late May, says the Agriculture Department.

A monthly survey showed the total labor force at 4,922,500 during the week of May 21, an increase of about 163,000 from a year earlier.

Butz Promises Fight Against Meat Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz says with beef prices up, there could be more talk of price controls.

In two speeches Thursday in the cattle country of Nebraska and South Dakota, the secretary said if there is, "you can count on me to fight again to place the facts on the food situation before all our people."

Any move to impose farm price ceilings, he said, would throw the worst kind of monkey wrench into the whole food marketing mechanism.

"I firmly believe that, as long as the people understand the economic facts at work in the beef industry, unwise controls will not be imposed which would be grossly unfair to cattlemen and grossly unwise for consumers and ythe nation."

He said people need to know that there are no price supports on meat, and no production controls.

"Those who remember the mess we got into when the government imposed war time meat price controls dread to think of going back to the shortages, the black markets, the rationing, the under-thecounter favoritism, and all the other unpleasantness that came with meat price regulations," he said. "I'm going to fight against that."

The secretary said increased demands for meat are putting new upward pressures on food prices. But consumers, he said, "must take into account the subnormal income levels of farmers. They must be prepared to pay the going price for higher quality foods—and meals eaten out in luxurious surroundings—just as they expect to pay the going price for golf clubs, new cars and vacation trips," he said.

Unfair Milk Sales Practices Now Outlawed

JEFFERSON CITY - Commissioner of Agriculture Dexter Davis and Ruben Schapeler, director of dairy program, announced today that compliance with the rules and regulations issued pursuant to the unfair milk sales practices act is mandatory for processors and distributors as a result of a decision by Judge James T. Riley of the Cole County Circuit Court.

Many Missouri daries have been voluntarily complying with the regulations since their issuance. Enforcement had been stayed with respect to dairies who filed a petition in the Cole County Court challenging their enforceability.

The regulations require processors and distributors to file pricing information with the Missouri Department of Agriculture for approval. They also prohibit discriminatory pricing practices that tend to destroy competition.

For processors and distributors not already in compliance, the required pricing information is to be filed no later than June 1.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has announced research grants for specific agricultural studies including:

A one-year, $5,000 cooperative agreement with the electrical engineering department, South Dakota State University, Brookings, to design a sound-producting unit and to test the effects of these sounds on sheep, dogs, cows and coyotes.

Karnes Named All-American

OKLAHOMA CITY — Morris L. Karnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Karnes of Essex Route One, was named last week as one of three All-American pitchers in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Karnes, who pitches for the Oklahoma Christian College Eagles in Oklahoma City, had a record of 13-1 out of the team's 30-10 record. The Eagles ended the season last week by tying for third place in the NAIA tournament in Phoenix.

Karnes, a 1969 graduate of Scott County Central, is majoring in physical education at OCC. He was recently named to the NAIA District 9 All-Star team and will be listed in Outstanding College Athletes of America.

Fans Love Allen

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's fans love Dick Allen, and they still love Brooks Robinson.

That was evident today from the first results of the countrywide balloting for the American League All-Star team which showed Allen and Robinson as the leading vote-getters.

Allen, the controversial first baseman for the Chicago White Sox, who is among the league leaders in home runs, runs batted in and batting, was named on 96,633 of the 217,029 ballots cast.

Robinson, the Baltimore third baseman who some felt had lost favor with the fans during the baseball strike, finished second in the first tabulation of votes with 94,841.

The other infield leaders were Rod Carew of Minnesota at second base with 74,423 votes and Luis Aparicio of Boston at shortstop with 57,074.

The three leading outfield candidates were Reggie Jackson of Oakland, Lou Piniella of Kansas City and Carlos May of Chicago.

The tightest battle in the balloting for starting berths in the All-Star Game to be played at Atlanta July 25 is for the catching position. Bill Freehan of Detroit leads with 56,167 votes to 42,693 for Thurman Munson of New York.

Cardinals Drop 6-1 Contest

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Known as a curve baller, Don Carrithers departed from form and fastballed his way past the St. Louis Cardinals for the San Francisco Giants Friday night.

The 6-foot-2 Carrithers, who hadn't pitched since June 4, filled in for ailing Juan Marichal and won 6-1 on a sevenhitter.

"Throwing every day, even while in the bullpen, has to be the big factor," the 22-year-old Carrithers declared.

"Our coach, Don McMahon, is a Johnny Sain protege and he believes in it. You've got to stay sharp if you throw every day."

Carrithers, who walked four and struck out three, had bad moments only in the opening inning as the Cards put together singles by Lou Brock and Ted Sizemore with Matty Alou's ground ball for their run.

After that he wiped out a threat by picking Jose Cruz off second base the next inning and inducing Joe Torre to hit into a double play in the third.

In the meantime, teammates of the Giants right-hander had rocked Cards starter Rick Wise, 5-7, for three hits and two runs in the second and forced his exit with four hits and two runs in the third.

Lowell Palmer, the second of five Cards pitchers, held San Francisco at bay for 2 1-3 innings but Bobby Bonds rocked Al Santorini for his 10th homer scoring runs to wrap up scoring in the sixth.

Carrithers, 2-3, had not started for the Giants since losing 42 to the New York Mets May 2 at San Francisco.

While he went to the bullpen, Steve Stone and Ray Bryant moved into the starting rotation. Carrithers' return was dictated by a lower back ailment sidelining Marichal for two weeks.

"I think I only walked two guys the 20 innings I threw in the bullpen," Carrithers remarked. "I quit worrying about control. I just went out there and threw strikes."

"He hung a few curves, but that's to be expected for as long as he's been off the mound," Giants Manager Charlie Fox noted. "His fast ball held him in there."

Fox, thinking of the Giants' 20-41 record and an abundance of youth on the club, added, "It'll be a while, but when these kids put it together we're going to have some fun."

Mrs. Bain...SeMo Champ

For the third consecutive year, Mrs. Mac Bain of Sikeston has captured top honors in the Southeast Missouri Women's Invitational Golf Tournament, held this year at the Cape Girardeau Country Club Wednesday and Thursday.

Rain — sprinkles Wednesday morning and heavier showers Thursday morning — failed to deter golfers, said Mrs. H.T. Miles, Jr., a member of the tournament steering committee. "We played through the rain and came in with a record time both days," she said, noting that rain Thursday morning caused only a five-minute delay for the 98 golfers participating in the tournament.

Mrs. Bain received a trophy as her prize, with winners in the five classes each receiving a silver piece.

Top four winners in championshiop class were Mrs. Bain, Mrs. Bill Hammer, Cape Girardeau; Mrs. Billy J. Lewis, Cape Girardeau, and Ms. Buddy Godwin, Poplar Bluff; class A, Miss Harriet Hunter, New Madrid; Mrs. Woodrow West, Cape Girardeau; Mrs. Francis Lejune, Farmington, and Mrs. Carroll Williams, Cape Girardeau.

Class B, Mrs. Fred Kurre Jr., Cape Girardeau; Mrs. Carol Pennington, Poplar Bluff; Dot Estes, Bonne Terre,and Mrs. Becky Landrum, Farmington; class C. Mrs. Jim Carol Casey, Poplar Bluff; Mrs. Jim Byrd, Cape Girardeau; Mrs. Sally Keasler, Poplar Bluff, and Mrs. Nelda Oberle, Ste. Genevieve.

Class D, Mrs. Leona Brown, Jackson; Mrs. Jan Brewer, Charleston; Mrs. Pat Archambeau, Arcadia, and Mrs. John H. Mehrle Jr., Cape Girardeau.

The tournament originated at the Cape Girardeau Country Club in 1951, and was last held in 1967. Golfers from Farmington, Fredericktown, Poplar Bluff, Bonne Terre, Arcadia, Sikeston, Ste. Genevieve, Jackson, New Madrid and Cape Girardeau took part in the 36-hole event. A Hawaiian luau was held for golfers Wednesday night.

On the steering committee with Mrs. Miles were Mrs. James W. Riley, Mrs. Maurice T. Dunklin and Mrs. Jerry Estes. Mrs. Ben G. Capshaw is president on the Women's Golf Association of the country club here.

Player Strike Threatens NBA

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — The first player strike in the National Basketball Association's 26-year history was threatened today following a decision by the league's board of governors to fine nine of the 11 players who participated in last month's All-Star Game against the American Basketball Association.

After Commissioner Walter Kennedy announced Friday that the governors had unanimously passed a resolution directing him to fine each player the amount he received for playing, Larry Fleisher, executive director of the NBA Players' Association, disclosed the strike threat.

Fleicher said from New York that the association had voted unanimously at a meeting in Spain May 30—five days after the game at Uniondale, N.Y.,— that, if the owners decided to fine them for playing in the game, they would take every legal recourse—including a strike, to prevent it.

The nine players named to pay the fines were Wilt Chamberlain and Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles, Nate Archibald of Cincinnati, Archie Clark of Baltimore, Dave DeBusschere of New York, John Havlicek of Boston, Bob Lanier of Detroit, Bob Love of Chicago and Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee.

None had received permission from his club owner to play. Connie Hawkins and Paul Silas of Phoenix, the other two members of the NBA all-star squad, had been granted permission to play by Suns' owner Dick Bloch.

Kennedy said each player who participated without permission would be fined an amount equal to the sum he received for playing with the money collected to be donated to charities or research foundations.

"The concept of the board of governors attempting to fine the players for presenting a game that over 25 million Americans watched is outrageous," Fleisher said.

A section in the NBA players' standard contract forbids them from taking part in exhibition games without the approval of their club owners.

While Kennedy was announcing the unprecedented decision at the conclusion of the two-day governors' meetings, he also disclosed: —That Abe Pollin, owner of the Baltimore Bullets, had been named to the newly created position of chairman of the board.

—That a decision on the Julius Erving case had been postponed.

—That Pollin would meet within a week with H. Wendell Cherry of the Kentucky Colonels and discuss further the proposed merger with the ABA.

—That the governors had briefly discussed the option clause, which the players association is seeking to hae dropped before approving a merger.

—And that Irving Levin and Harold Lipton, whose application to purchase the Boston Celtics had been rejected Thursday, made another presentation before the board.

Palmer Electrifies Gallery

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The adrenalin is pumping again for Arnold Palmer— "almost too much," he says— but both the fabled charger and his army are cautious today entering the last two rounds of the 72nd U. S. Open Golf Championship.

"Sure, they give me a big lift out there—they always did" said the 42-year-old fairway idol of the 1960s, referring to the game's most famous and faithful following. "But I think they are afraid to get too hopeful. There have been too many disappointments in the past."

Sinking birdies on the final two holes, a Palmer trademark, Arnie fired a four-underpar 68 Friday to move within a shot of a tough cordon of leaders still battling for an uncontested front position over Pebble Beach's 6,812 yards of terror and travail.

Crusty, gusty Pebble Beach is still the champ. After two days, none in the star-spangled field has managed to beat par.

Favorite Jack Nicklaus, himself brought crashing to earth with an unnerving string of three straight bogeys headed the jostling, elbowing crush of six tied after 36 holes at even par 144. Par for the humbling layout is 36-36—72.

Level with the reigning Masters titleholder were Australian Bruce Crampton, Kermit Zarley, Homero Blancas, Cesar Sanudo and rookie Lanny Wadkins. Wadkins, 22, 1970 National Aamateur champion and leading newcomer on the tour with more than $50000, played with Nicklaus and fired a 68, matching Palmer for the best round of the day.

Defending champion Lee Trevino, professing "I'm just trying to keep from dying" sank birdie putts of 20, 15 and 12 feet on the incoming nine—the latter for a birdie on the 18th—in shooting a par 72 that kept him in strong contention.

"I slept 20 hours—I'm stronger but my head is stopped up and I wish my ears would pop," said the Mexican-American, who got out of a hospital bed in El Paso to compete here against doctor's orders. He has been suffering from viral pneumonia.

The Mexican-born Sanudo, joining Trevino and Blancas in giving the tournament a Latin American flavor, was a late starter and at one time had the only red score—representing sub par—on the board.

He was four under par and rolling after birdies at the second, third, fourth and sixth holes on putts of three to 12 feet. Then, he said, "Everything blew up."

"I went to sleep on the eighth hole—something I've been doing for 3 1/2 years," he said. "I hooked my drive into the rough and wound up three-putting for a double bogey six. I misjudged the seventh and 11th.

Trevino was tied with five others at 146, just back of Palmer. They included Gary Player of South Africa, 72-74, Chi Chi Rodriguez 71-75; Ralph Johnston 74-72, Rod Funseth, 73-73, and Lee Elder, only black golfer in contention, 75-71.

Houston's Toy Cannon Explodes

Jimmy Wynn, Houston's Toy Cannon, went off twice Friday night. The first explosion cost him $100. The second one cost the Philadelphia Phillies a ball game.

Wynn, who carries the Toy Cannon nickname because of his size and his power, greeted reliever Dick Selma with a leadoff homer in the bottom of the 11th inning, giving the Astros a 1-0 decision over the Phillies.

Seven innings later, Wynn had picked up an automatic $100 fine for tossing his helmet in protest over a called third strike from Philadelphia starter Steve Carlton.

In other National League action Friday, New York nipped Cincinnati 2-1, Chicago chut out Los Angeles 4-0, Pittsburgh shaded San Diego 2-1, San Francisco downed St. Louis 6-1 and Montreal split a doubleheader with Atlanta, winning the opener 7-4 and dropping the nightcap 2-0.

Wynn raged at Umpire Bruce Froemming in the fourth inning after being called out on strikes. He dropped his bat across home plate and then tossed his helmet in anger as he strolled away from the umpire.

Carlton duelled on even terms first with Don Wilson and then with reliever Tom Griffin and the game remained scoreless after 10 innings. The Phillies left-hander allowed just six hits and struck out 13 before leaving for a pinch hitter in the 11th.

Dick Selma came on at the start of the 11th and it took only four pitches for Wynn to end the ball game. His ninth homer landed in the left field stands and moved the Astros into second place tie with Los Angeles in the National League West, 2 1/2 games behind Cincinnati.

The Mets snapped a sevengame Cincinnati winning streak for the second time in less than two weeks, pushing across a run in the ninth inning on Bud Harrelson's triple and a wild pitch by loser Gary Nolan.

After the triple, the Reds walked pinch hitter Tommie Agee, choosing to pitch instead to Willie Mays, whose seventh inning single had tied the score. But Mays never got the chance to be a hero because Harrelson scampered home on Nolan's wild pitch.

Steve Blass tossed a five-hitter and retired 16 San Diego batters in order, pitching the Pirates past the Padres and keeping Pittsburgh one-half game ahead of New York in the NL East.

Jim Hickman and Billy Williams cracked home runs and Burt Hooton fired a six-hitter as Chicago blanked Los Angeles.

Williams' homer was his 12th of the season and fifth in the last four games. Hickman hit No. 6 as the Cubs beat Claude Osteen, defeating a left-hander for only the third time in 12 decision this season.

San Francisco collected 11 hits including Bobby Bonds' 10th homer of the year and the Giants thumped St. Louis. Don Carrithers, pitching for the first time since June 4, scattered seven hits to pick up the victory.

The Giants jumped St. Louis starter Rick Wise for four runs and eight hits in the first three innings and Carrithers coasted after that.

Montreal rallied for four runs in the ninth inning of the opener with consecutive pinch singles by Ron Fairly and Jim Fairey driving in three of the runs to beat the Braves.

Who, Then, Is The American?

THE AMERICAN HERITAGE HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE. By Bernard A. Weisberger. American Heritage Publishing Co. $19.95.

Bernard A. Weisberger, who formerly taught history at the University of Rochester, Columbia, Stanford and New York universities, is now associate editor of American Heritage magazine. In writing what is designed, in effect, to be a social history of the American people, he seems to be trying to answer the question raised back in the 18th century by the French-born American letter writer, Crevecoeur: "What then is the American, this new man?" One cannot say the historian is really able to this date to answer it, but the attempt is interesting.

What Weisberger does is describe how the various strains — ethnic, religious, national, social, economic — were woven, frequently almost by chance, into the contemporary American people. From today's headlines, we can see that the threads do not always hold together in a homogeneous fabric.

One of the most significant quotes he gives is from a "black activist," the Rev. Jesse Jackson: "There is talk about it (America) being a melting pot. But it is really more like vegetable soup. There are separate pieces of corn, meat and so on, each with its own identity."

As with most American Heritage publications, the pictures — from old prints of the early colonial period to modern photographs illustrating the various racial groups that have become American — are exceptionally interesting. In a sort of reverse process, the most startling picture is a 1919 photograph of a pageant of Jewish history in Milwaukee, Wis. In it a girl posing as the Statue of Liberty stands beside a figure representing Abraham Lincoln.

Leonardo Da Vinci TV's Man Of Summer

NEW YORK (AP) — Leonardo da Vinci, who painted the Mona Lisa and died more than 400 years ago, seems likely to emerge as, if not television's man of the year, at least its man of the summer.

CBS announced in March that it would present a five-part summer series dramatizing the life and works of the 15th century painter-inventor-architectscientist The programs were made for and originally shown on the Italian television network. CBS acquired them, frankly, because of the response to and prestige gained last summer when it broadcast "The Six Wives of Henry VIII," a six-part import from British television.

NBC, earlier this month, announced it would present an hour-long special called "Leonardo: To Know is to See" on June 20.

Since the CBS series had long been scheduled for five consecutive Sunday nights starting Aug. 13, this suggested a Leonardo competition.

"I have no doubt that the NBC hour can only help CBS," said Chandler Cowles, producer of the hour-long program.

"Our program is concerned with Leonardo's paintings, sketches, models and even his music, played from notes we found among the Da Vinci archives in Windsor Castle. The CBS programs are dramatizations and there should be more interest in his life because of our show."

Cowles' special was shot as an educational film under a grant from International Business Machines (for an unrevealed amount believed to be around $500,000) to the National Gallery in Washington. It was designed originally for use in schools and colleges.

"We were in Europe a year and shot 40,000 feet of film—about seven hours," Cowles said. "We have been going through the agony of cutting it, first to two hours, then one, since January. The National Gallery people saw the rough cut, were impressed, and word leaked out. A man from NBC in Washington saw it and said he would like it. He gave us a June 20 date and we're still cutting film to make it."

Mail Box

Dear Editor:

Congressman Bill D. Burlison's latest questionnaire had one question concerning amnesty for those Americans who left the country to avoid military service. The following is a copy of the letter I sent along with the questionnaire.

Dear Mr. Burlison:

Regarding question No. Nine. This problem goes much deeper than these draft dodgers in Canada. I am not qualified to answer this question and neither is President Nixon, Henry Kissinger or any senators or congressmen and the least qualified of all our citizens to make this decision (and any other decision concerning our country) are those millions who avoided the draft legally. There is only one group who has earned the right to make this decision and that is America's True Patriots, the men who fought the war. These men were discriminated against by their government, all of us, the expert border jumpers and the legalized draft dodgers who didn't even have to jump a border.

In whose selfish little mind did this seed of justice germinate that says it is fair to draft some men by law and completely excuse others? How do you draw any distinction between these illegal draft dodgers and the ones who dodged the draft legally? There is no moral or patriotic difference is there? Both groups escaped the draft didn't they? A real patriot comes to the defense of his country when it is threatened doesn't he? He doesn't run or use well sounding excuses to get out of doing his share does he? All able bodied young men have an equal responsibility to defend their country don't they? Given an equal set of circumstances these illegal draft dodgers could have been in the legal draft dodgers camp. Does any one doubt Harold Geneen President of I.T.T. could keep anyone out he wanted to? Edward Cox and David Eisenhower didn't really know a war was going on did they?

How easy it is to verbally support this war from a recliner in front of a color T.V. or from an air conditioned car but we all know who the real supporters are don't we?

Our politicians would rather spend ten years covering up a mistake than ten minutes admitting they were wrong and the result is little more than organized confusion.

Mr. Burlison this criticism is not directed at you, it is an attempt to remind society, while the majority of us were enjoying our personal whims, economy, fun life mink coats and etc. less fortunate American soldiers were dying in Vietnam and THAT IS WRONG.

When this war finally ends let the Vietnam veterans decide what to do with these deserters. These veterans may be big enough to grant full amnesty to those who chose to run instead of to fight and at the same time forgive all those text book heroes who sought refuge in the safety of their privileged society.

W. T. Woods

The Case Of The Shapely Smuggler

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

Shapely Carol had a fantastic figure, but she didn't have the brains or common sense to match it. A known narcotics user, she went on more trips than an airline hostess.

One trip she took, however, without the aid of drugs was to Mexico. Upon her return, a customs inspector took one look into her glassy eyes and ordered her into another room where, in the presence of a doctor, she was ordered to strip.

As suspected, some of Carol's more shapely curves didn't belong to Carol. On the contrary, there were formed by hidden packages of narcotics that Carol was attempting to sneak into the United States.

Arrested and charged with smuggling, Carol was indignant.

"You can't just tell a girl to go into a room and strip her," she complained in court. "Aside from the fact that it's highly improper, it just doesn't sound very constitutional. Therefore, the search was illegal and the evidence found can't be used against me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the evidence to be used against the shapely smuggler?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a customs inspector cannot search a person's body on whim. But, he added, where there are facts present that clearly indicates smuggling, he may search a person's body in detail. Inthis case, concluded the judge, there were sufficient facts present to warrant the search. Carol was a known narcotics user, her eyes were glassy, indicating the use of drugs, etc. (Based upon a 1966 United States Court of Appeals Decision)

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Ananias went, entered the house and placed his hand on Saul. "Brother Saul," he said, "the Lord has sent me . . . so that you might see again and be filled with the Holy Spirit." (Acts 9:17, TEV)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee that brotherhood is something above and beyond blood relationship. Teach us to recognize all persons as being related to us, and may we show it by our words and in our actions. Amen.

Churchill Memorial Is Historic Site

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Winston Churchill Memorial and Library at Westminster College in Fulton, Mo., has been declared a National Historic Site by the National Park Service, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., announced today.

Symington said he was informed by the park service this week that it's the first time a building brought in from a foreign country and then reconstructed has been recognized on the National Register of Historic Places.

The focal point of the memorial, a reconstructed church designed by architect Christopher Wren, was imported from London to Westminster College in honor of Sir Winston Churchill's "Iron Curtain" speech which he gave on the campus in 1946.

Petition Drive To Continue

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Citizen's Lobby announced today its petition campaign will continue in an effort to get a so-called "Sunshine Law" on the November ballot.

The group is still about $1,500 short of the money estimated as needed to get the required 92,000 signatures but Carl Wilson, chairman, said he was confident the money would be forthcoming.

He told a news conference today total pledges of $5,437 have been received including one post-midnight call that gave the group confidence to go on with the campaign.

The lobby had set midnight Friday as the deadline for its fund drive but early today while a staff meeting was being held, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Branstetter of Barnett called with a pledge of $25 and said they would be willing to give more.

Mrs. Branstetter apologized for the lateness of the call, Wilson said, but explained she and her husband had been hauling in their hay and it took longer than expected.

Wilson said the petition circulators are close to their goal in the 4th, 7th and 8th congressional districts. They have until July 6 to get enough signatures to put the issue on the ballot.

The proposed constitutional amendment would open to the press and public all meetings of public agencies at every level of government — school boards, city councils, legislative committees and so on.

Wilson called the issue of secrecy in government one of the most important facing the people of Missouri.

"We as citizens must stop kidding ourselves about who influences our laws in these closed door meetings,"

Mobile X-Ray Unit Records 1,198 Films

When the Christmas Seal mobile chest X-ray unit visited Scott County in April, 1,198 satisfactory films were taken.

Chest X-ray films taken during this community health survey revealed six suspicious Tuberculosis and 25 other pathology instances. The remaining 1,167 films revealed no suspicious Tuberculosis and no other pathology.

Tuberculosis work in this area is aided with funds raised from the annual Christmas Seal Campaign.

Scott County is represented on the TB and Respirator Disease Advisory Council by Dr. Thelma Buckthorpe and Dr. Carl G. Popp, both of Sikeston; K. M. Streeter of Painton; and Mrs. Berneal E. Carroll, registered nurse, Scott County Health Department in Benton.

Tuberculosis is still the leading infectious killer in Missouri. According to the society, there will be 20 million people in the U.S. in 1975 infected with TB germs. The tubercle bacillus germ is a "tricky" one; it can be dormant in the human body for years and then suddenly spring into action. One- fifth of the entire population carries the germ in either an active or inactive state, so the fight to eradicate Tuberculosis must go on.

Citizens can help by having their lungs checked annually at the mobile chest X-ray unit or by their doctors and by continuing to use Christmas Seals.

Business Education Workshop Scheduled

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A two-week business education workshop, "Structuring and Individualizing Business and Office Education," will get under way Monday at Southeast Missouri State College.

The workshop, which will run through June 30, is sponsored by the College's department of business administration and business education through a grant from the State Department of Education. It may be taken for two hours of graduate credit.

Director will be Dr. Katherine Green, visiting professor during the past year at Southeast Missouri State.

Establishing a flexible program and vocational blocks to apply to all job levels will be major objectives of the workshop, according to Dr. Gene Loftis, head of the college's business department.

Dr. Loftis added that problems of articulation in career education, reading and vocabulary building for students with special needs, and the development of classroom materials in specific areas of interest to the participants will be emphasized.

The workshop is one of four being offered this summer by the college's business department. The first, which concluded Friday, was titled "Analysis of Business Occupations." It will be repeated at South County Technical School in St. Louis for teachers in that area, beginning Monday.

The fourth workshop of the summer will also be in St. Louis July 3-14. It will be taught at O'Fallon High School.

3 Paths Open To Medicare Recipients

CAPE GIRARDEAU — People filing social security Medicare claims have three ways to receive the amounts due them, according to Clifford Forsee, district manager.

When both the physician and patient agree, the claim may be assigned to the doctor, who will receive 80 per cent of the reasonable charge from Medicare. The 20 per cent balance is the patient's obligation. Where the bills have been paid, the claimant files claim for reimbursement towards the amount paid. In those cases where the accounts have not been paid, itemized bills may be submitted. This method can help claimants meet their obligations.

Forsee added that people filing Medicare claims should remember they are responsible for the first $50 in covered medical bills each calendar year, before any payments can be made.

Anyone with a question about Medicare payments may contact the social security office at Cape Girardeau, Kennett or Flat River.
